"The Bobby Jones Of Women's Golf"

GENE SARAZEN CARRIES HIS PARTNER THROUGH

Glen Head, L. I., May 31. Joyce Wethered, hailed as the "Bobby Jones of women's golf," made her first appearance and professional debut in this country yesterday and lived up to one of the most sustained reputations any sport personality has ever been accorded.

From a scoring standpoint she failed to reach her own goal of even fours, but her method of stroke execution and judgment were the highlights of an 18-hole exhibition match she played with Johnny Dawson, Chicago "business man" golfer against Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, and Gene Sarazen. The match ended all square on the eighteenth green of the Women's National Golf and Tennis Club after Sarazen exploded brilliantly from a trap for a winning 4.

IMPRESSIONS IN THE AMATEUR GOLF CLASSIC

Lawson Little's Own Style

PLAY IN GENERAL DISAPPOINTING

(By "HENRY COTTON")

London, June. I have been asked by several people to give a few impressions of the Amateur Championship. I think that any championship run by our "Royal and Ancient" seems to have that dignity and perfect organization which come only from experience, and last week all the arrangements were splendid. I was a spectator every day, and thoroughly enjoyed my holiday, I missed seeing Lawson Little after his victory, but congratulate him now on his fine win.

He is a grand player, and although he plays with a style of his own, he is quite an artist in his method, and played many extra good shots when in a tight corner.

C.R.C. CHALLENGE IN "A" DIVISION DOUBLES CHAMPIONS TO BE TESTED

H.K.C.C. SHOULD BEAT RECREIO

(By "Base Line")

THE Chinese Recreation Club who have already defeated their strongest opponents in the "A" Division of the Lawn Tennis League, the U.S.R.C. and the K.C.C., should have no difficulty in taking both points this afternoon against the Indian Recreation Club, whom they entertain at Causeway Bay.

Apart from the fact that they will win comfortably, the tennis should be very interesting as three of the best Chinese partnerships will be seen pitted against the Colony Doubles holders, S. A. and H. D. Rumjahn, who are the mainstay of the I.R.C.

ALLISON REACHES SEMI-FINAL AT QUEEN'S CLUB

Dr. Daniel Prem To Clash With David Jones

London, June 22. Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Texas, and the United States No. 1 ranking player, to-day gained the semi-final round of the Queen's Club invitation tournament by defeating the noted British internationalist, E. O. Gander Dower, 6-4, 6-4.

Allison will meet his Davis Cup team mate Don Budge, of California, to-morrow. In the other semi-final, David Jones, of New York, will meet Dr. Daniel Prem, of Germany.—United Press.

AMERICAN CHANCES IN WIGHTMAN CUP

Wimbledon, Eng., June 24. Frederick J. Perry and Miss Dorothy Round of Great Britain, on the eve of the Wimbledon championships to-night, were picked as favourites in their respective events.

The meet, starting here to-morrow, will give American Davis Cup challengers an excellent opportunity of studying their chances of regaining the famed trophy since Davis Cup entrants of England, Germany and America will compete.

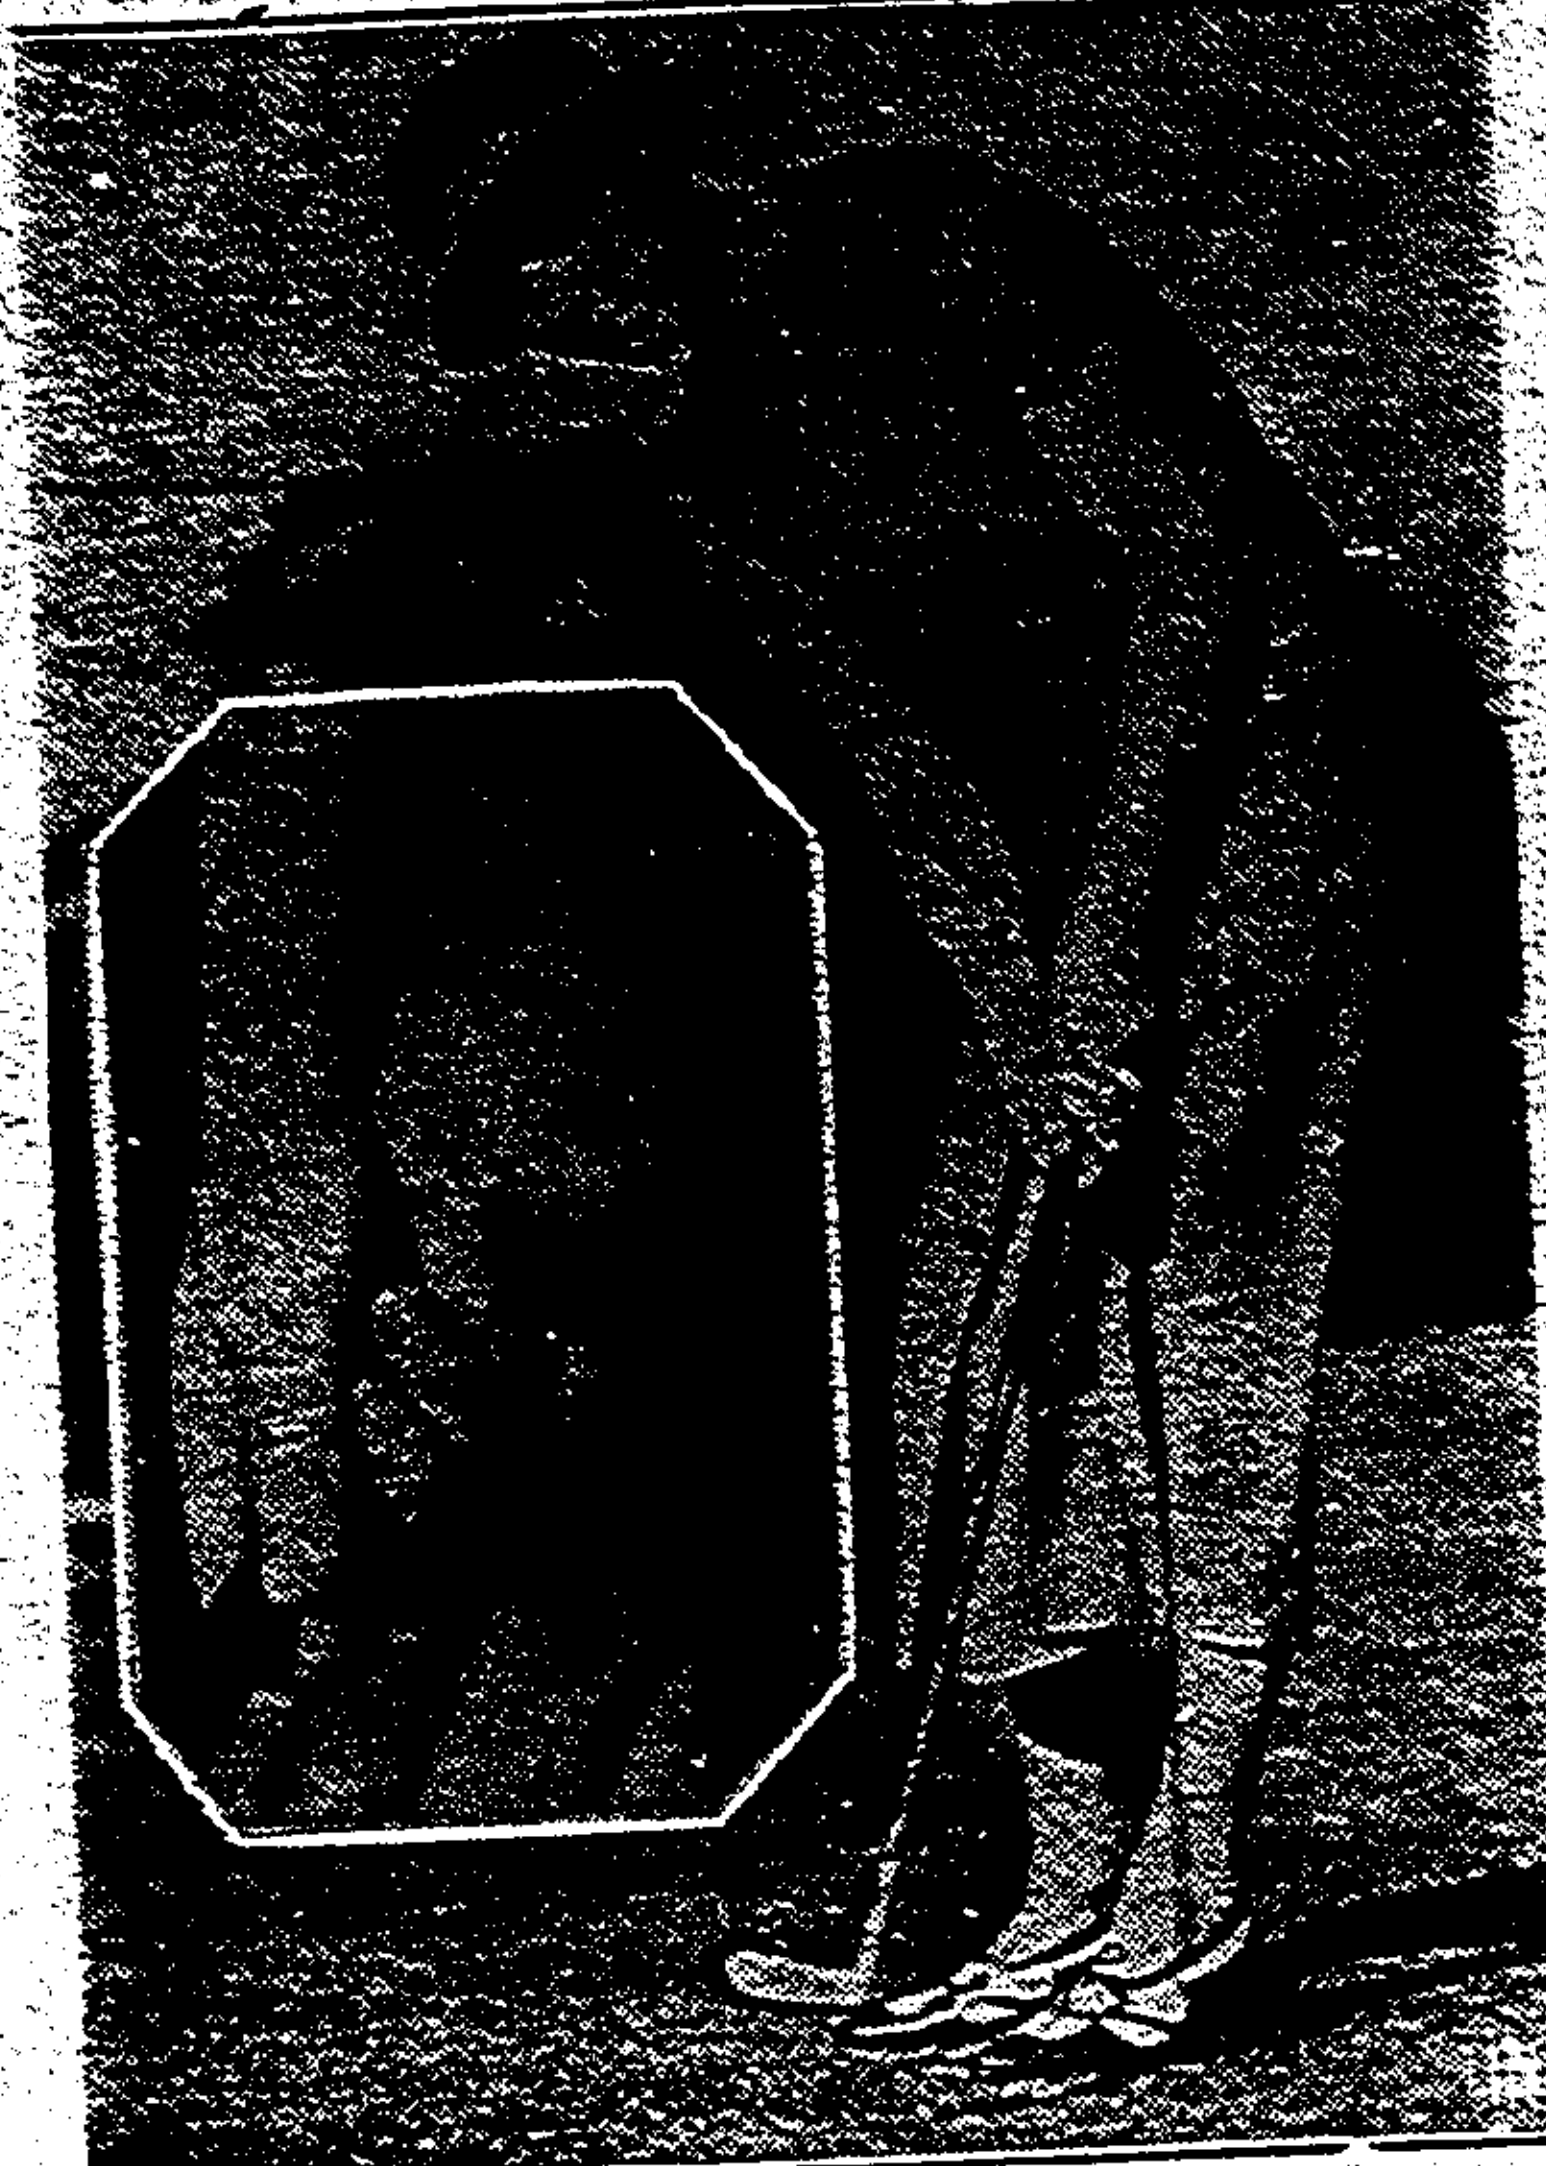

Wightman Cup Team

America's Wightman Cup team will also go into action here to-morrow. The outcome of the first day of play should furnish the critics with an opportunity to get a fine on the chances of the American girls to retain their British trophy.

U.S. Davis Cup Team Stage "Mock" Trial

Philadelphia, May 31. The "tenderfoot" of the United States Davis Cup team, Don Budge, and Gene Mako, backed by the professional skill of a German trainer, Hans, Munk, today stood even with their veteran opponents, Wilmer Allison and Sander Wood, in a mock trial match at the University of Pennsylvania. The match was a close one, with Allison and Wood leading 2-1 at the end of the first set, but Budge and Mako won the second set 6-4, and the match 2-1.

Two hours after arriving in New York from England for her first visit to America, Joyce Wethered, acclaimed by experts as the greatest woman golfer in the world, demonstrated her ability at Fresh Meadows. She turned professional two years ago and is now in America for 40 matches with the best U. S. golfers, male and female. Inset shows Miss Wethered's grip.

BRYAN GRANT RETAINS CLAY COURT TITLE

Defeats Parker In Five Sets

GILBERT HALL AND BERKELEY BELL WIN DOUBLES

Chicago, June 22. Bryan M. "Bibby" Grant, Jr., of Chicago, successfully defended his national clay court tennis title by beating young Frank Parker of Milwaukee here to-day in a hard-fought five-set match.

The score was 4-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3, 6-0.

J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., and Berkeley Bell, of New York, took the doubles title by defeating Robert Bryan of Chattanooga, Tenn., and John McDiarmid, of Chicago, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2, 9-11, 6-2.

They defeated J. D. Budge and C. G. Mako, who with "Bibby" Grant took part in the opening stages of the American Davis Cup campaign at Mexico City last month.

Grant first took the clay court singles title last year, succeeding Parker, outstanding infant prodigy of American tennis.—Associated Press.

POWERFUL ELEVEN SELECTED

RECOGNITION GIVEN TO S. CHINA "B" PLAYERS

TAY QUEE LIANG TO JOIN TEAM

(By "Referee")

FOLLOWING their very successful tours of Australia and Java, the South China Athletic Association are sending one of their best soccer teams on an extended tour south, embracing Indo-China, Malaya, Java, Burmah, and possibly India.

A tour of this nature has never yet been attempted by any Club or Association, and the main object of this venture is to give these footballers, some of whom will probably represent China at the Berlin Olympic Games, every opportunity for studying the form and styles of different nationalities.

THE TEAM, WHICH LEAVES HONG KONG ON OR ABOUT JULY 8, WILL BE COMPOSED OF THE FOLLOWING:

WONG WING (CAPTAIN) (GOAL), LEUNG IN CHAN (RIGHT BACK), LAU MAU (LEFT BACK), LEUNG WING CHIU (RIGHT HALF), LIM TAK PO (CENTRE HALF), and LEE KWOK WAI (LEFT HALF). YEUNG SHUI YICK (RIGHT-WING), LAI SHU WING (INSIDE RIGHT), TAY QUEE LIANG (CENTRE FORWARD), CHEUK SHEK KAM (INSIDE LEFT), and LEE SHEK YAU (LEFT-WING).

THE RESERVES WILL BE TONG KWAN (HALF BACK) AND GEORGE CHAN (FORWARD).

The team will be under the care of Mr. Ho Yun Kwong, and their itinerary is as follows:

Leave Hong Kong next Monday or Tuesday for Saigon, where five games will be played. Then to Java, via Singapore, where eight games will be played. From Java, the team will travel to Rangoon, where a series of games will be played against the pick of Burmah, and, if time permits, the team will travel to Calcutta.

On the return trip, games will be played at Penang, and two at Singapore.

The team expect to be back in the Colony in time for the opening of the local soccer league.

Junior Men Honoured

It is worthy of note that several members of the touring team have been drawn from South China "B", and these include the centre-half, Lim Tak-po, the right-wing, Yeung Shui-yick, who played for the victorious South China team when they won the Senior League in 1933, the inside-right, Lai Shu-wing, and the inside-left, Chenk Shek-kam.

Tay Quee-liang, the Malayan Chinese who came from Singapore and set a precedent by playing for the South China "A" team in his first season and for China in the Far Eastern Olympic Games at Manila, is joining the team at Singapore as centre-forward. His knowledge of the southern type of soccer should stand the team in good stead.

"SPURS" NEW MANAGER

Mr. Peter McWilliam is the new manager of Tottenham Hotspur F. C. He held the position from 1913 to 1927, during which period "Spurs" won the F. A. Cup, promotion to the First League, and left to take up a similar post at Middlesbrough, which he held until 1933. He has already taken over his new duties.

SHANGHAI SOCCER STARS ARRIVE HERE

CHINESE TEAM FOR JAVA

SUEN KAM-SUEN STILL UNDECIDED

(By "REFEREE")

Accompanied by Dr. Yu Heng-chi, their manager, the 12 Chinese footballers who are travelling to Java for a series of 15 games under the auspices of the Chinese National Amateur Athletic Federation of Shanghai, arrived in the Colony this morning by the M. M. liner ss. Aramis.

Dr. Yu, who has previously taken two Lok Wah teams on tour, said that although this was by no means their best team, it was, nevertheless, a good one.

SUEN INTERVIEWED. Suen Kam-suen, the former Athletic forward, who is a member of the team and who is accompanied by his wife and family, said he was very glad to be back in the Colony, if only for a short stay.

He could not confirm the rumours to the effect that he was coming back to the Colony. He admitted, however, that the Three Cultures for whom he played for during the last two seasons, were not entering the Shanghai League next season, but he had been invited by Tung Hwa to play for them.

RETURNING NORTH

He, however, declared that he would be returning with the present team as he intended playing in the National Games.

LOCAL STARS GOING

Dr. Yu said that the team would be strengthened here by the inclusion of two Kwai-shing, the South China "A" and "Inter-port" right-winger, and Ho Kar-keung, the brilliant Athletic leader. He also hoped that Mak Shui-hon, the Athletic's left-back would also be able to obtain the necessary leave and join them.

Tay Quee-liang, the former South China "A" left-winger and Chinese Olympic star, had sent him a telegram, intimating that he was joining the team at Saigon, but now that South China claim that he is joining them at Singapore, there seems to be an element of mystery as to what he is going to do.

FISH-PEDDLER NOW CAUTIOUS RING MASTER

Preliminary To "Heavy" Clash

BAER AND LOUIS FOR SEPTEMBER BOUT?

New York, June 27.

Joe Louis agreed to-day to fight King Levinsky in a 10-rounder in Chicago late in August as one of several bouts in preparation for his clash with Max Baer or Max Schmeling here in September.

The Detroit "black menace," who became the whole "heavyweight show when he battered giant Primo Carnera to the canvas in six rounds here on Tuesday night, will make short work of the Chicago Kingfish, most of the ring followers predicted.

But the more cautious recalled that Levinsky has displayed a knockout punch himself in bout after bout since Baer knocked him out in two rounds at Chicago last December, and may be dangerous even against Louis.

Baer A Certainty

The insiders were certain to-day that Baer, outstanding among the ex-heavyweight champions, will fight Louis in September, despite the talk of the injured hands he damaged when he dropped his crown unexpectedly here on June 13 when Jimmy Braddock defeated him.

Brown's Hard Task Against Rosario In Bowls Open

The Third Round of the Colony Lawn Bowls Singles Championship commences to-day when three games will be decided.

Of the three perhaps the one that arouses the greatest interest is that between A. C. Brown, the Bowling Green skip and former interporter, and H. Brown, himself, has been a fairly good bowler, and although he has the ad-

ALLEGATIONS MADE AGAINST MANCHUKUO

Promotion Of Dispute Between Russia And Japan?

SOVIET WARNING ISSUED

Moscow, To-day.

A number of new frontier incidents between the Soviet and Manchurian borders have resulted in the Soviet sending a strong protest to Japan.

The note recounts the list of border affrays, in which it is stated that four Soviet Guards were killed by Manchukuo and Japanese troops in Soviet territory.

It is alleged that the incident proves the local Manchukuo authorities' desire to promote a dispute between the Soviet and Japan, and adds that the Soviet cannot permit Manchukuo and Japanese shipping on internal Soviet waters, and that the responsibility for the consequences will rest on the Japanese and Manchukuo authorities.—Reuter.

Bellicose Tone Of Russian Press

Moscow, to-day.

The Soviet press voices grave concern in comments on the Russian note to Japan, Izvestia fiercely charging the Japanese military circles with the intention of disrupting the peaceful political and trade relations between the two countries.

The paper stresses: "We declare once more that we desire to live in harmony with the Japanese people, but we protest with all the greater energy against the attitude of certain Japanese military authorities." (Continued on Page 12)

FLOOD PREVENTION IN HANKOW

Further Labour To Be Enlisted

Hankow, To-day.

An important meeting of the Flood Prevention Committee has decided to enlist further labour for the prevention work.

The Hankow Municipal Government, according to a Chinese report, has decided to divide the local area into four sections, each section establishing its own prevention office.

The dyke along the Fungshu River to Koochow is believed to be in a very serious condition, but coolies have been despatched to strengthen this section.—Reuter.

WEATHER REPORT

A weak anti-cyclone covers the Pacific to the east of Japan, and pressure is moderately high in the vicinity of Shanghai. A depression has formed over the upper Yangtze Valley, and will probably move eastward. A depression is forming over south-west China. The local forecast for to-day, as issued by the Royal Observatory, this morning, was south and south-west winds, moderate, cloudy, occasional rain.

President Roosevelt should be impeached for his statements concerning the N.R.A. decisions of the Supreme Court, says Mr. Sam R. McElvie, above, ex-Governor of Nebraska and member of President Hoover's Farm Board.

COLLISION AT SEA

82 REPORTED LOST IN THE INLAND SEA

TRAGEDY IN DENSE FOG

VESSEL OF 767 TONS SINKS IN THREE MINUTES

Tokyo, To-day.

The steamer Midori Maru, with 253 passengers and crew, collided with another steamer on the Inland Sea and sank. It is feared that at least 150 persons have been drowned.—Reuter.

A later message states that 150 people are feared to have perished as the result of the sinking in the Inland Sea in the vicinity of Shodo Island at one o'clock yesterday morning of the Midori Maru, a vessel of 767 tons which was bound for Beppu from Osaka.

Out of a dense fog emerged the Senzan Maru, 1,144 tons, on its way to Osaka and Dairen, which struck the Midori Maru amidships, the bows penetrating the engine room. The Midori Maru, carrying 168 passengers and 85 members of the crew, sank in three minutes; there was no time to send out an S. O. S. or to launch the lifeboats.

The Senzan Maru was not damaged and, assisted by numerous fishing boats, picked up the survivors, of whom 135 were rescued by 5 a.m., when the work of rescue, impeded by heavy seas and pitch darkness, was abandoned.—Reuter.

82 REPORTED MISSING
A later message states that the Osaka Shosen Kaisha announce that there were 166 passengers and 62 crew on the Midori Maru, of whom 91 passengers and 56 crew were rescued. Seventy-two passengers and six of the crew are missing.—Reuter.

VIVID ACCOUNT
A later message from Tokyo states that a survivor named Wakamabe gives a most vivid account of the disaster.

He relates: "At 1.08 o'clock I felt and heard a terrific crash amidships on the starboard side of the Midori Maru. The light went out and I jumped out of bed and rushed out of the cabin to a lifeboat."

WHERE EDEN OFFER FAILED

NO GUARANTEE GIVEN OF FRONTIER PEACE CESSION OF TERRITORY NO ADVANTAGE TO ITALY

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Rome, To-day.

Somewhat less restraint in the discussion of the British Government's proposal for the settlement of the Abyssinian dispute is now shown by political circles and the press since Mr. Anthony Eden's House of Commons statement.

The British offer had been refused, it is declared, since it neither fulfilled Great Britain's object nor satisfied Italy's. The reason why, according to the Italian standpoint, is explained by the semi-official Giornale d'Italia, which asserts that Mr. Eden failed to make clear the practical value of his proposal or the possibility of putting it into effect.

It obviously contained no provisions for securing peace at the frontier; on the contrary, Abyssinia remained unpunished for the incidents which took place and would be even encouraged to new treaty infringements. The conflict between the two countries would not thereby be eliminated—only postponed.

Abyssinia would be the gainer by the cession of the port of Zeila, which would enable her to obtain munitions unrestrictedly, while the transfer of this port would be a great advantage for England and a disadvantage for Italy, who as compensation was offered the most barren territory in all Abyssinia, whereas Italy sought productive fields of labour.

"Italy" affirms the paper, "to-day demands the same rights as those which other countries, foremost among them England, have assumed to themselves, by undertaking colonial missions and expansion as a means of economic and political expansion."—Trans-Ocean Service.

SING SONG GIRLS GOING TO CANTON

SEEKING JOBS AS WAITRESSES

WAITERS' GUILD UP IN ARMS

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Canton, To-day.
Many sing-song girls from West Point in Hong Kong are coming to Canton to carry on their profession in Chen Tung (Canton's West Point) or on the flower boats off the East Bund.

As each professional call of these beauties make on clients at Chen Tung restaurants or flower boats costs as much as $5 (including some $4.00 for tax), some of these girls believe that business will not be brisk in these uncertain times and many seek work as waitresses in restaurants and tea rooms.

Their venture in this direction appears to be successful. Enterprising restaurant owners put up notices inscribed: "You are served here by pretty West Point girls." This means that in a local restaurant a customer enjoys practically all the privileges he can secure in the high-class establishments in Hong Kong.

Each local eating house is allowed to employ women up to 20 per cent of its waiting staff, although the girls have insisted on 40 per cent. Since many restaurants have engaged women, the girls have been able to find work.—(Continued on Page 12)

ITALY'S MILITARY STRENGTH IN AFRICAN COLONIES

Amazing Revelations Of Advanced Stage Of Preparation

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Rome, To-day.

Striking evidence of the advanced stage of Italy's military preparations in Abyssinia is afforded by the publication of a statement here that she now possesses 60 aerodromes and 50 radio stations in the East African colonies, which in addition are intersected by a system of roads 10,000 kilometres in length.—Trans-Ocean Service.

ITALO-ABYSSINIAN DISPUTE

Commission To Start Hearing Statements

Scheveningen, To-day.

The Italo-Abyssinian Commission finished its study of the documents connected with the Italo-Abyssinian dispute at a plenary session yesterday morning and will start hearing the statements of the agents of both countries and witnesses of the incidents to-day.

Professor Gaston Josa, of Paris University, who is acting as agent for Ethiopia, arrived yesterday.—Reuter.

SOVIET CITIZENS IN MANCHURIA

Categorical Order To Withdraw?

Dairen, To-day.

A sensation has been created by a report of the Kokutai, the semi-official Manchukuo news agency, declaring that the Soviet Consul-General at Harbin has categorically ordered all Soviet citizens to withdraw from Manchuria by August 25.

No confirmation of the report was obtainable up until a late hour last night.—Reuter.

Mr. Donald Richberg, assistant to the President and N. R. A. chief, is here shown leaving the Capitol at Washington after hearing the unanimous decision of the Supreme Court deciding the N. I. R. A. unconstitutional. A moment before he had been on the verge of tears. The Court declared that the N. R. A. was a surrender by Congress of power to the President, and that the President had exceeded his constitutional rights. Immediate suspension of the enforcement of all N. R. A. codes was ordered by the Administration.

ROOSEVELT RECEIVES MAJOR SETBACK

LEGISLATION REQUEST AGAIN REJECTED IN HOUSE

Washington, To-day.

Repeating Tuesday's rebuff to President Roosevelt, the House of Representatives again rejected the President's request for legislation to outlaw holding companies and stuck to its own bill giving the Securities Exchange Commission discretionary authority over holding companies by 257 votes to 147. The decision was greeted with loud applause from the crowded galleries and the House.

Later another vote of 246 to 133 brought the House the revised bill from the committee to the floor. The House then passed its modified Holding Companies Bill, which now returns to the Senate, from where it will probably go to a conference of both Houses to adjust the differences.

Yesterday's votes in the House are regarded as the most decisive defeat of President Roosevelt since he took office.—Reuter.

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Berlin, To-day.

Forced down by a leaking radiator, the German seaplane "Torpedo" one of the flying boats on the regular air mail service between Germany and South America, was compelled to alight in mid-ocean on Monday, half way between the steamer Schwaner and Westfalen, which serve as facilitations for the German machines crossing the South Atlantic, and which immediately went to the assistance of the disabled plane on receipt of a wireless call for assistance.

The airship Graf Zeppelin, which is on its way to South America, also answered the call and thanks to its superior speed was the first to reach the scene, where it stood by until the steamer Westfalen had arrived.—(Continued on Page 12)

SUCCEEDS WHERE MANY OTHERS FAILED

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Geneva, To-day.

An outstanding Alpine feat has been accomplished by Peter Mayer, a German who ascended the north wall of the Grandes Jorasses in the Mont Blanc region, which rises above Les Cheux Glacier at a height of 8,400 metres.

The extremely difficult ascent, which has been tried in vain by numerous Alpinists of various nationalities, many of whom lost their lives in the attempt, was completed by Mayer in 17 hours.

With the climbing of the wall of the Grandes Jorasses the last remaining Alpine problem of the Western Alps has been at last solved.—Trans-Ocean Service.

NEUTRALITY OF AUSTRIA

Proposal Discussed In London

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Paris, To-day.

The alleged Czechoslovakian proposal for general acknowledgment of the perpetual neutrality of Austria, similar to Switzerland, is now being discussed in diplomatic circles in London, according to yesterday's editions of The Law, which claims that while the British Government is willing to support any effort to play the Russian in Central Europe, it nevertheless is opposed to assuming any responsibility involving the perpetuation of military intervention.—Trans-Ocean Service.

BERANGER SPEAKS

INTERMEDIARY OF THIRD POWER NOT REQUIRED

Betrayal Of Trust Combated

MORE HASTE LESS SPEED POLICY DEPLORED

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Paris, To-day.

"Let us understand England," writes M. Beranger, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the French Senate, in the "Agence Economique et Financiere". He ends his article by advising France to follow England's good example and start diplomatic negotiations without the intermediary of any third power.

M. Beranger vigorously combats the suggestion that the Anglo-German naval agreement means that England has turned her back on her old ally or that Britain is guilty of a breach of faith. The declaration of February 3 and also the Stresa agreement stipulated that before any important international action there would be consultation, but there was no veto on action. Britain had consulted France, as required, and afterwards having found the German proposals acceptable, had acted in typically British manner.

"NO BETRAYAL"
Germany agreed not to exceed a fleet strength of 35 per cent of the British fleet. That was all.

"How," asks M. Beranger, "can one regard that as betrayal, incorrectness or desertion?" France had pulled a long face, but that was not a diplomatic attitude.

"Has not the French Government," asks M. Beranger, "for some years past continually irritated the British by her eternal insistence that all problems should be solved at once, the result being that none were solved at all? This ideology of doing so many things at one time comes from the over-growth of bureaucracy, and leads nowhere. England has merely made use of her right as a great Power, and France would do well to follow her example."—Trans-Ocean Service.

GIRL BATHER TAKEN BY SHARK

Terrible Tragedy Seen By Holiday-Makers

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Milan, To-day.

A terrifying incident was experienced by bathers at Sussak, the seaside resort near the Italo-Yugoslav frontier, who saw a young Czechoslovak girl swimmer fall a victim to a shark before their eyes.

Two enormous sharks had already been sighted, the exceptional occurrence having spread consternation among the bathers, who made for the beach as quickly as possible. The unfortunate young girl, however, had swum out too far and was caught by the monster before she could reach the shore.—Trans-Ocean Service.

NECK-FRILLS FOR TAILOREDS

Diminish Severity Of Appearance

APPLIED TO BLOUSES

Tailored suits are robbed of much of their severe air by the frilly necklines of the blouses.

These attractive necklines may take the form of a round collar composed of rows of small frills, as in the case of the spotted muslin blouse with pintucks in front and on the shoulders.

A double flared frill varies the crossover style of blouse, which is in candy-striped silk and ties in a bow at the waistline.

The frilled neckline in the sand-colored blouse of crepe de Chine with three-quarter length sleeves in inset by means of fagoting. Rows of this stitch trim the blouse back and front. The small cuffs are also frilled.

CONTRASTS FOR SURPRISE

Wearing Light And Dark Together

Dark and light materials are worn together to effect surprise if possible. Light coats go with dark dresses; dark blouses and hats go with light coats and skirts. A beige suit may be worn with a brown blouse and contrasts, such as that of grey with bright green hat, gloves, belt and so forth, are much to the fore. Revers and linings of coats have reverted to some extent of the fashion of being lined with checked cotton or with such oddities as paper set in under mica.

There are many swaggy coats, especially in the new checked material; when they are light they are worn over a dark dress and vice versa. These are useful coats and, with the dress, form a real stand-by.

APPLICATION OF EYE-SHADOW

Should Not Shout Its Presence

THE RIGHT TOUCH

Eye-shadow is something that you can play with until you get just the right touch that does the trick. This cosmetic doesn't have to cry out loud that it is there, to be effective. It is just what it says—a shadow of beauty, and the disappointed young woman who put it on "for the first time" and said, "But I can't even see it! All it does is make my eyes look bluer," expressed its very essence of being.

Of course, blue eye-shadow is lovely with blue eyes, making them bluer, and green with green, and very soft brown with brown. Black shadow is too intense for any except coal-black eyes.

A BECOMING HAT IDEA

THE shape of the narrow hat with upturned brim on one side, through which a ribbon is passed and tied in a dainty bow, is particularly becoming to a girl who wears her hair thickly curled and waved, and whose profile is attractive.

FILLING A SCREW TOP SALT CELLAR

An easy way to fill a screw-top salt cellar—remove the top and replace in the reverse position so that it acts as a funnel.

TAILORED NIGHTGOWN

DULL SIDE OF OYSTER-WHITE CREPE USED

One particularly handsome tailored nightgown is made from satin-back, oyster-white crepe. The dull side is used for the gown itself and the satin side for the delicate sprays of flowers at the waistline, around the square neckline and across the elbow seams in the sleeves of the matching jacket. The skirt molds the hips and ends in a short train.

Another nightgown is part of a set that is as glamorous as the wedding procession. Trimmed generously with real Alencon lace in white to match the gleaming white satin, this has an extremely long, pleated, fan-like front border of white chiffon.

ACCESSORIES IMPORTANT

Should Be Carefully Selected

The new taffeta checks in dark brown and cream or prune and white are cool-looking. Stripes look their best in light-weight suitings. They are good for the classic coat and skirt worn with white pique waistcoat.

Accessories to complete good dressing are more important than ever; they certainly get more and more elaborate as dress in general becomes simpler. Gloves and shoes in two colours, with belt and handbag.

LOOKING SMART, FEELING COOL

Paris Solution Of Problem

COATS OVER FROCKS OF SAME MATERIAL

To look smart and feel cool; to walk forth on a midsummer's day in airy comfort, and still be trim for the streets, is no small problem.

Paris has solved the difficulty by putting little tight-fitting coats over summer frocks made of the same material. These give the ensemble the effect of a tailored suit. Taken off, they reveal the frock in all its summer gaiety.

Flowered cardigans, worn over dark colours, are a variation of the same idea. Made in a small sprig pattern on a white ground, they are reminiscent of the design beloved by our grandmothers for draping their dressing-tables.

Very young and demure they look, with a touch of old-fashionedness which is the last word in modernity.

HOW TO SHRINK NEW COTTON MATERIAL

THE best method for shrinking new cotton material is to soak it for two hours in cold, softened water to remove the dressing; and then wash it in the usual way.

"En suite" can cost almost as much as a costume. Such expensive details give good value, and, if chosen with care, will do duty with many suits and ensembles.

BABY'S BETTER NOW!

When baby is sick there seems to be a gloom over the whole house, and how happy every one is when there is no further cause for fear and baby is well again!

Most minor forms of sickness in infants and young children have their origin in the stomach and bowels, and there is a pleasant, reliable way of quickly correcting such, by administering Baby's Own Tablets at the first signs of trouble, or as soon after as possible.

These tablets are the prescription of an eminent medical child specialist, and are guaranteed under Public Analyst's certificate to be entirely free from opiates, narcotics or other similar drugs, also to be perfectly safe and harmless even to the youngest infants in arms.

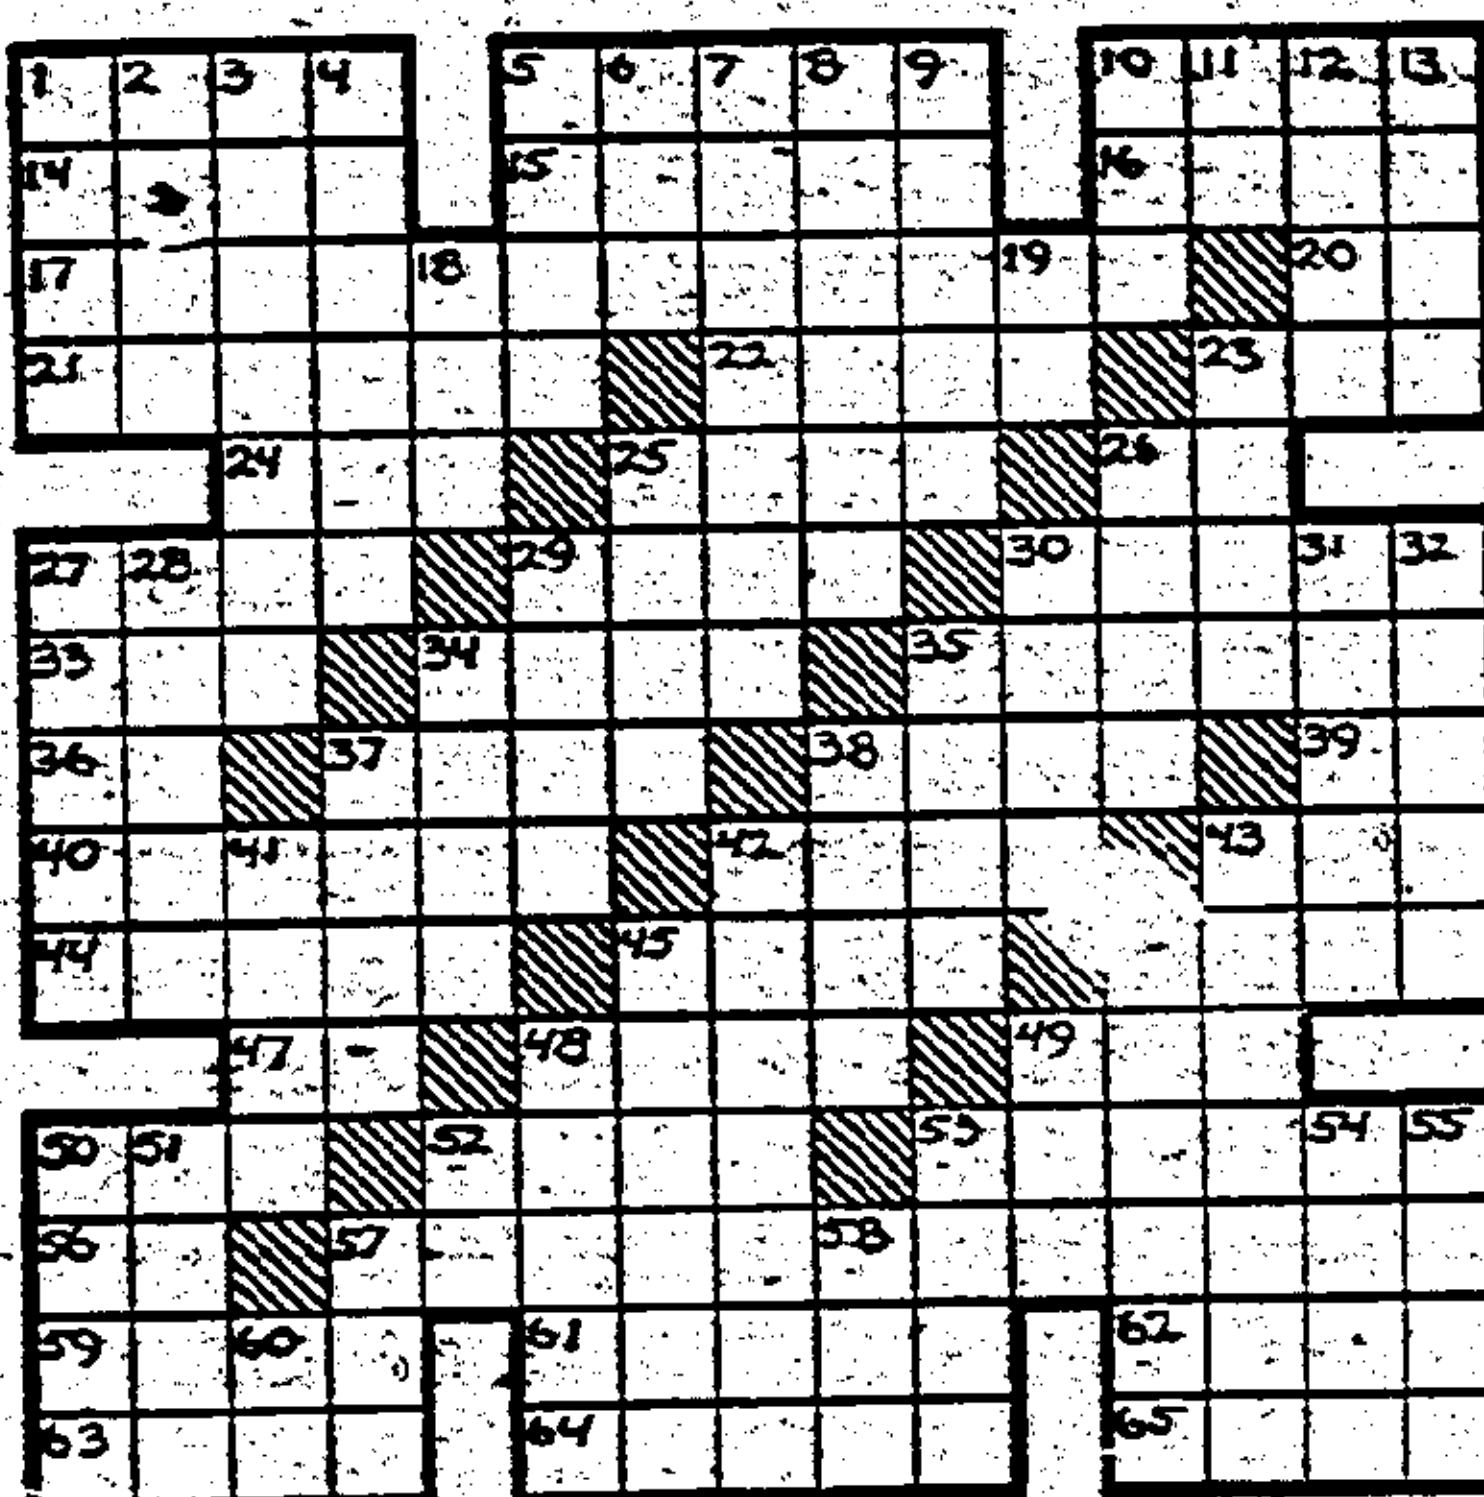

Gently laxative, Baby's Own Tablets cleanse the stomach and intestines, thereby removing any congestion in the food tract, a common source of infantile indigestion, colic, wind, vomiting, diarrhoea. They promptly relieve cramp and colds, and at teaching time have proved of the greatest help in quickly allaying the pains, thus inducing natural, sound, health-giving sleep. In many instances where young children were not thriving as they should, due to the presence of worms, Baby's Own Tablets have worked wonders, driving out the parasites with resultant health benefit to the child. From chemists everywhere you can obtain the children's favourite medicine.

CHANNEL BUOYS

WHAT would modern navigation do without the channel buoys—those floating markers that keep ships off the shoals? In a very real sense, the advertisements in this paper are channel buoys, placed for your protection—for the safeguarding of the family expenditures.

These advertisements are the signed statements of reputable firms who seek your patronage on the single basis of giving value for every dollar spent. They are honest statements, the only kind an advertiser can use and remain an advertiser.

People who get the most for their dollar in the market-places are those who keep an eye on the channel buoys. Day by day, they follow the advertisements to learn what and where to buy to the best advantage. Make this a habit. Study the advertisements, in the interest of shrewder buying.

The advertisers in this paper have cleared the channels of way for you. Keep to the course.

"TRANS-ATLANTIC MERRY-GO-ROUND"—KING'S THEATRE

Sydney Howard the British comedian, makes his first bid for American screen honours in Reliance's "Trans-Atlantic Merry-Go-Round," showing at the King's Theatre to-day. Howard is a member of an all-star cast including Jack Benny, Nancy Carroll, Gene Raymond, Mitz Green, Sid Silvers, Frank Parker, The Boswell Sisters, Sidney Blackmer, Ralph Morgan and other stage, screen, and radio personalities.

Howard is a "Yorkshire man," born in the old town of Yeadon. He had contributed his services to many amateur theatricals while working for his father, a printer and manufacturer of paper bags. Then one day he noticed an advertisement in a newspaper calling for a "part-time" comedian. He made his professional start in the miniature variety shows then in vogue at seaside resorts. After four years of this he was signed for one of the first revues ever staged in England. He toured with the show for 14 months and was just gaining recognition when the World War broke out. After the Armistice he had to begin all over again.

After four years of touring Great Britain and South Africa as a "single" in vaudeville and as a featured comedian in popular revues, he burst into fame as "Bathing Smith" in "Hit the Deck." Then came "Fanny Face" with Fred and Adele Astaire, and other revues.

"THE GREAT FLIRTATION"—ALHAMBRA THEATRE

A clue to the reason why so many actresses seek divorces from an actor husband is contained in the Paramount film, "The Great Flirtation," which opens to-day at the Alhambra Theatre, with Elissa Landi and Adolphe Menjou in the principal roles.

In this story of the romance of an exotic actress and a temperamental actor, which was written by Gregory Ratoff, Adolphe Menjou, as the husband, gives Elissa Landi, his wife, a great deal more advice than love. Because she cannot find romance in her husband, she turns to other men. And so these two must lose love to learn that they ever possessed it in the surprise climax that closes the film.

"The Great Flirtation" was produced by Charles R. Rogers and directed by Ralph Murphy. David Manners and Lynne Overman are featured with Miss Landi and Menjou.

"GALLANT LADY"—STAR THEATRE

Clive Brook and Ann Harding are names that ensure a sound picture and their latest, "Gallant Lady," is certainly that.

Miss Harding has excellent scope for her ability as an emotional actress in this film of a woman who not only loved too well but who also loved too often.

The men in her life include Otto Kruger and Paul Cavanagh, two who do their bit towards making this one of the best pictures of its kind to reach Hong Kong in recent years.

"BEFORE MIDNIGHT"—QUEEN'S THEATRE

One of the most thrilling of mystery dramas to reach the Colony for some time opens to-day at the Queen's Theatre.

It is called "Before Midnight" and stars the talented Ralph Belamy as the sleuth who tracks down the perpetrators of the murders which punctuate the story at various intervals. A large cast has been assembled for the picture and the audience will find it a difficult though intriguing task attempting to keep Belamy in an unravelling the mystery.

John Collier (the wife of Stuart Erwin) makes a bold bid for stardom as the romantic interest in the picture.

FREAK FACES ABOUT FILM FAVORITES

Sinclair Lewis' "Babbitt" will be screened at the Alhambra Theatre to-morrow.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

REPORT OF ANNUAL MEETING

Encouraging Growth Disclosed

Boston, Mass.

A call to renewed activity in the daily application of Christian Science was issued on June 3 at the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, by The Christian Science Board of Directors.

Church officers in their reports divulged marked growth of the movement throughout the world, and increased demand for the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science.

Chairman's Speech

George Wendell Adams, speaking as chairman of the Board of Directors, stressed the need for interest not only in problems of individuals, "but also in the general welfare of the world. Truth and Love hold guard over the whole world as well as over the minutest occupant of it," the Directors said.

"In these days of unrest, with rumours of vital disagreements among nations, we should turn often in prayerful expectancy that nation shall not rise up against nation, but that Love, God, will be acknowledged as supreme in the affairs of men. In reality, men and nations do not envy and hate each other; because they have one heavenly Father they respect and love each other."

Referring to the new Christian Science Publishing House which increased demand for Christian Science literature made necessary, Mr. Adams asserted that while wholesome activity in the movement continues, "the putting up of buildings, however beautiful and necessary they may be, does not in itself lay the foundation for spiritual enlightenment which is essential to meet the demands of humanity. To be enduring, growth must be the result of earnest, active spiritual effort."

"HI NELLIE"—ORIENTAL THEATRE

Paul Muni, one of the most famous names, both on the American stage and screen, comes to the Oriental Theatre to-day in the role of an editor who is de-throned and relegated to the "Heart Throb" column because he declined to print a story against a man until he was positive of the facts.

How he fights back to his former position and proves that he was right in not printing the story together with the humour of Claude Rains and other well-known comedians, makes this a picture which should not be missed.

THE ARCTIC NOT DESOLATE

Vari-Coloured Plants Grow Profusely

Ottawa.

While the Dominion of Canada reaches to the north far beyond the Arctic Circle, the northernmost Arctic Islands being less than 600 miles from the North Pole, it is a mistake to think of those Arctic regions as being desolate and bleak the year round.

A considerable number of plants grow there which are not to be found in other parts of the country and the colours of the Arctic flowers, such as blue lupins, azaleas, rhododendrons and Arctic primroses, are deeper than elsewhere.

The Arctic summer is very short, but the sun shines 24 hours a day and growth is almost incredibly rapid. The snow has not left the landscape before numerous flowers are blossoming in the sheltered areas. The grass grows long and rich enough to support large herds of caribou and musk-oxen.—Reuter.

MOTOR CARGO SHIP ORDERED

Lord Runciman recently ordered on his personal account a motor cargo vessel of 9,200 tons deadweight carrying capacity from William Doxford and Sons, Sunderland.

The vessel will be similar to the Kirriemoor, which Lord Runciman ordered last November to relieve unemployment on Wearside, and which was launched last month.

BRIDGE NOTES

Preparedness in Bidding

By Ely Culbertson

The backbone of the Culbertson System is the Approach Principle, which, in essence, states that suits are to be shown and as much information as possible exchanged at the lower levels of bidding. A corollary of this policy of not raising without adequate trump support.

However, under the Principle of Preparedness many established rules must occasionally be broken. The Principle of Preparedness in the bidding is merely the result of the natural desire of the good bidder to keep out troublesome situations and to avoid getting into bidding jams. It is the principle that one should look ahead in the bidding and responses which his partner may anticipate the various possible make in order that he may pick his own bids properly when faced with a choice.

A very good example of preparedness is seen in the following situation. Your partner, as dealer, opens the bidding with one spade and the next hand passes. Your holding is:

S—J 5 4
H—7
D—A 9 6 5 3
C—J 10 5 4

On this hand you have less than adequate trump support for your partner's spade but, with over one honour-trick and good distribution you do not wish to pass. The automatic thoughtless response would be two diamonds.

However, if you look ahead in the bidding you will see that this bid cannot possibly do any good. You admittedly have a weak hand and you desire only to give one chance to your partner; you do not wish to make any subsequent rebids. If you bid two diamonds on this hand you will, if you do not overbid by showing spade support later, be concealing from your partner the semi-dit which may be the making of the hand. Therefore, since you are giving just one chance, why not give it where the chief hope of game seems to lie.

For instance, suppose your partner's original spade bid consisted of:

S—A Q 10 9 5 4
H—7 4 2
D—K 5
C—A Q

Even though he has a pretty good hand, over two diamonds he can do nothing but simply rebid his spades. You, with your meagre holding, will now be forced to pass and a laydown game will have been missed. Had you bid two spades right over one spade, however, South, knowing that the hands fit, would have been able to jump to four spades.

You may say that this is all well and good, but four spades could have been reached by bidding two diamonds and then over two spades raising to three. However, your partner's one and two-spade bids might have been made on the following hand:

S—A K 9 5 4
H—K 5
D—7 4 3
C—K 6 4

"ARMADA JEWEL" May Be Bought By British Nation

London.

Since the announcement that the famous array of miniatures in the Pierpont Morgan collection were to be sent from New York to Christie's, expectations have been aroused in art circles.

Already plans are being made to win for the nation that historic "Armada Jewel" encasing Queen Elizabeth's portrait by Nicholas Hilliard, in all his glory, engraved with that emblem of national deliverance—the ark floating in safety on the troubled waters. This was bought at Christie's for the first time, at the Pierpont Morgan, on Far Bank, at 100-110, 1902, for £5,250.

Benge and Hallahan in Limelight
GERRIG HITS HOME-RUN

New York, To-day. Two "shut-outs" featured yesterday's programme in the National Baseball League, when the Dodgers, blanked the Braves, as the result of fine pitching by Benge, while Hallahan gave the Cardinals victory over the powerful Pittsburgh combine. Joe Medwick scored the only circuit-clout of the game.

The Giants had everything their own way against the Philadelphia, Melvin Ott clouting his 17th four-bagger in the home-run parade.

The Red Sox gained a narrow victory over the Senators in the American League when Dahlgren, Miller and Werber struck homers and helped to nose out their opponents by a 6 to 5 margin.

The Yankees maintained their position at the top of the table with an easy win over the Athletics, Lou Gehrig, one of last year's batting stars, hitting his eighth home-run of the season.

NEW TENNIS STARS OF TO-MORROW

FRANCE IS FINDING NEW MUSKETEERS

ENGLAND'S REPLY TO FOREIGN DEVELOPMENTS

(By F. J. PERRY)

London, June 8.

WHO will be the great lawn tennis players of the world of to-morrow? Already I have told you about the rich promise of lads met during my wanderings in America and Australia. Now one of the biggest surprises I have had, after twelve months away from Europe, has been the change of personnel of the competitors in the French championships. Some of the ripening new talent will be on view at Wimbledon.

Last year on all sides, particularly in France, one heard misgivings about the future of French lawn tennis. When the Four Musketeers "disappeared" the French authorities began working quietly among the juniors. Now, in 1935, the fruits of their labours are ripening, and there are three or four splendid colts in training.

BEST AMONG THEM IS PROBABLY BERNARD DESTREMEAU, A TALL, FAIR PRODUCT OF PARIS. THIS BOY HAS SHOWN EXCELLENT PROMISE MORE PARTICULARLY ON THE WOOD SURFACE DURING THE WINTER.

HE IS BLESSED WITH A TYPICALLY FRENCH STYLE, HITTING THE BALL CLEANLY ON THE FOREHAND WITH THE USUAL CONTINENTAL GRIP, AND ALMOST "SLAPPING" IT FROM THE BACKHAND WING. HE IS RATHER PRONE TO HIT EVERYTHING HARD, WHICH IS NO DEMERIT IN A VERY YOUNG PLAYER, BUT THROUGH THIS OFTEN WORKS ON WOOD, IT IS NOT SO EASY ON HARD COURTS.

LAWN BOWLS RINKS CHAMPIONSHIP

Silva And Omar To Clash

BEST GAME OF SEASON EXPECTED

The draw for the quarter-final round of the Colony Lawn Bowls Rinks Championship was held in the offices of the President of the Lawn Bowls Association, Mr. H. Nish, yesterday. What were supposed to be two of the most likely contenders for the title this year, C. G. Silva's rink and the one skipped by U. M. Omar, came into opposition to one another, and this gives every promise of being the most interesting game of the season. Although Omar has three men in front of him who are individually better bowlers than the opposing three, the unbeaten Silva has a trick of adding remarkable confidence to his rink.

A. M. Holland's strong Bowling Green rink, which already has one or two smashing defeats to their credit, will meet a rink composed of Clubmates and skipped by M. J. Henderson.

AUSTRALIA'S SOUTH-AFRICAN CRICKET TEAM

Australia's cricket team to visit South Africa, chosen on Saturday, and to be announced to-day, is believed to comprise Richardson (capt), Grieg, McCabe, O'Brien, Fingleton, Brown, Old, and Chipperfield. Darling, Old, Brown, Eberhart, Barnett, McCann, and Fleetwood-Smith.

Another French hope is P. Pelizza, a dark, well-built youth. He, too, likes to hit everything really hard. One does not hear as much of him as of Destreumeau, but many judges in Paris believe that in him they have a real find. After beating R. Longtin, the Canadian, in Paris, he went down in four sets to H. M. Hines, of America. I watched this match quite closely, as I had to follow on the same court. I was quite astonished at the pace Pelizza obtained from so slow a surface.

Plenty Of "Cut" He has a nice easy action, on both wings, though the backhand is produced with plenty of "cut," the type of shot, one usually finds among French players in particular.

A reply from the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Association to Mr. C. B. Hoeking, Hon. Secretary of the H. K. Lawn Bowls Association, to the effect that Shanghai would be willing to send a team of bowlers down to Hong Kong sometime late in September or early in October for the annual Interport encounter, was received yesterday. The letter also stated, that a Committee meeting of the S.L.B.A. had been called for Friday when all the details of the tour would be completed.

LEE WAI TONG MAKES SUGGESTIONS

COLONY AS VENUE FOR FINAL SOCCER TRIALS

TOURS HELP SEARCH FOR TALENT

(By "Referee")

"NOTHING definite will be known about the All-China Football team for the World Olympiad at Berlin until the Chinese National Games at Shanghai on October 10, when the combined form of all players in China will be studied," said Lee Wai-tong, China's famous soccer star in an interview yesterday evening.

"Realising the difficulties which would confront the National Federation in their task of picking a team, I wrote to the department concerned and advised them in the manner they were to go about the matter," he continued.

"I SUGGESTED THAT A NATIONAL FOOTBALL COMMITTEE BE FORMED OF MEN AND PLAYERS WHO HAD A VAST KNOWLEDGE OF THE GAME AND WHO WERE FAMILIAR WITH THE VARIOUS PLAYERS IN EACH COUNTRY. THIS COMMITTEE WOULD, OF COURSE, HAVE TO BE FORMED SOME TIME BEFORE THE NATIONAL MEET WITH A VIEW TO FORMULATING SOME SORT OF COMMON WORKING IDEA.

"The Committee would be composed of men who had had time enough to witness all the football matches during the national games and to study all available material.

"It was my idea then to select 50 players, the pick of all competing teams and divide them up into four teams, following which trials would be held in Shanghai following the Games.

The Real Essence

"It is most essential that those players in minor teams, whose sides may be hopelessly beaten in the Games, but who are, nevertheless, first-class performers themselves, be given a chance.

"From these four teams it will be possible to select 15 to 20 men who will then be notified that, should they maintain their present form, they may stand an excellent chance of making the Olympic team.

It is absolutely futile to select China's team immediately after National Games, as there is a period of nearly six months between that and the Berlin Olympiad.

Final Trials Here Furthermore, I suggested that about two months before the team sails for Berlin, all those players who were previously selected be invited to Hong Kong where there are better soccer conditions, and certainly better opposition. Trials will be staged here—probably two—and then the final team will be picked.

"We will then make a tour of the South Seas before making for Berlin.

"It is my earnest hope that the Committee will attempt to follow these lines as near as possible as the majority of China's best players are in the South.

Football Association Stage Final Meeting

The final Council meeting of the Hong Kong Football Association was held in the Association Offices yesterday. Major C. M. Mansel O.B.E. was in the chair and others present were Commander T. A. The draft rules were gone into in detail and after several amendments were approved. The request of the Liga Portuguesa de Hong Kong to be admitted to the Football Association was granted.

Y.M.C.A. BEAT EAST LANCES AT WATER POLO

G. FOWLER SHINES IN ATTACK

MILITARY SIDE LACK EXPERIENCE

(By "CRAWL")

A very enjoyable game of water polo was witnessed yesterday evening when the European Y.M.C.A. defeated the East Lancashire Regiment by 4 goals to 1 in a strenuous game, after leading at the interval by the odd goal in three.

The outstanding feature of the game was the excellent display of G. Fowler, at centre-forward, who scored three of the "Y's" goals, while H. G. Lange also played a much improved game.

The "Y" on the whole were 50 per cent better than last week, better distribution of the ball being one of the main features of the clash.

Although the score indicates an easy win, it was by no means so, the winners having to fight their way every inch.

Lawton's Good Display

The East Lancs have a very fine team who need only to play more together to come up to the standard of the other military water polo teams. Lawton, in the pivotal position, gave a very sound display and it was only inexperience which counted against him.

McCarthy, at centre-forward, could have scored on several occasions had he broken away from his man, but this fault seems to be a universal one among the military teams who will hang onto their men like leeches instead of making an opening.

Another factor which played an important part in their defeat was the fact that the wingers invariably passed back to the centre-half with the centre-forward waiting for a pass.

Gorman, who is well-known on the soccer field, was very hard-working and proved more than a match for Lange at times, but he too lacked the necessary speed to keep the "Y" champion in leash.

SOUTH CHINA
BEAT DAINITY

The intermediate line was fairly safe, and the Chinese forwards had some difficulty in finding an opening. George Tsang, the Chinese leader, was far too good for Norris, the opposing pivot, but he lacked support and was unable to take the ball through himself.

Forwards Decline

The Navy forwards were good at the beginning, but towards the end they tried too many individual efforts and were unable to do much. The three inside men played well together, but lacked the aid of their wingers to be effective. Throughout the game they missed several chances, some by wild kicking and others by bad luck. Goldfinch, the inside-right, netted their only goal with a well placed drive.

The Chinese team had by far the better combination, and left their opponents few opportunities of showing up well. Wong Wah-kai, in goal, made some very clever saves, but beyond stopping a few drives, was never really tested. This was mainly due to the good work of Leung In-chai and Leung Wing-chui, two backs who allowed very little to pass them.

Halves Shine

The half-backs were responsible for keeping the opposing forwards

in their own half for the greater part of the game. Lim Tak-po, a pivot, was at times caught napping by his opposing centre-forward Lovell, who was very quick on the ball.

The Chinese forwards were the strength of the team, and at times had the entire opposing team at their mercy. On the sudden ground their usual short passing attacks were not so effective, but they were just as good with their long passes. Tong Kwan, the right-winger, played an outstanding game, and although he only netted one goal, it was through his good work that three of the remaining goals were scored.

The First Goal

It was fully 15 minutes before the first goal was scored. Cheuk Shek-kam springing off the right-back's legs. The second came shortly afterwards but was rather doubtful, as both Navy backs stopped, thinking he was off-side.

After the interval, another four goals were scored by Cheuk Shek-kam (2), George Tsang, and Lee Shek-yau, while the Dainty replied through Goldfinch.

South China: Wong Wah-kai; Leung In-chai and Leung Wing-chui; Henry Young, Lim Tak-po and Lee Kwok-wai; Tong Kwan, Lai Sui-wing, George Tsang, Cheuk Shek-kam and Lee Shek-yau.

Dainty: Ball, More and Stanley; Southern, Norris and Penrich; Patterson, Goldfinch, Lovell, Harrison and Cole.

NEW TENNIS STARS
OF TO-MORROW

J. Jamain, another French lad, survived until the third round, where he put up quite a good fight against Adrian Quist, of Australia. France has in these three players material for fashioning new Musketeers, though their turn may not come yet.

Another young player of possibilities whom I saw in Paris is J. Pallada, a well-built young left-hander from Yugoslavia. Unlike most left-handers of the day, he has rather a "delightful" style. Quite naturally, he found Jack Crawford beyond his powers in the third round. Despite the fact that Crawford is well known, he gave the impression in that match of knowing quite well what he was doing.

When he got to the ball he realised more or less where it ought to go, and he had a fine sense of angles as any other player I know.

Most Improved Player

At the moment the most improved player on the Continent unquestionably is J. Caska, from Czechoslovakia, who, at 19, has already displaced from the Davis Cup side so fine a player as L. Hecht. In Paris I watched him with close interest. In the South of France he had beaten Christian Boussus. One cannot term his game beautiful, but his shots are correctly produced.

He hits the ball cleanly and, above all, is not afraid to run. He can take the ball well going at full tilt—a strong asset to any player. At the moment, however, he does not vary his pace enough, and is too apt to overdo long-length strokes rather than mix them up a bit.

Of supreme importance to us at home is the question: "What have we on hand in England to combat this developing power abroad?" R. E. Mulliken, our present Junior Champion, seems a boy who can be placed on a par with Destre-meu, though he is, as yet, not nearly as good as Caska.

Better Than Austin

Many judges think that in Mulliken we have the best junior champion ever, and that when he won junior Wimbledon he was better even than Austin and Wilde when they won it. And Austin and Wilde were miles above the average. He tries, like some of the others, to hit everything very hard, and has yet to learn that one cannot expect to make winners all the time.

Donald Butler, from Birmingham, although not in his first flush of youth—he is about 25—is devoting himself seriously to lawn tennis for the first time. We played together in the hard court championships at Bournemouth and I discovered that he possesses one of the prettiest of stop volleys. He does not hit sufficiently hard, but with the coming of the grass season he should find it easier to gain pace off the ground. If he can do so, the way will be paved for his really brilliant volleying.

For the life of me I cannot understand why R. A. Shaves, of Kent, is not a better player at the moment, or why he should not develop into greatness. I have played against him a couple of times this year, and saw wondrous shots flowing from his racket all over the place, but nothing tangible seemed to happen.

Should Arrive Somewhere

Surely a player with a service as good as his, so good a backhand and so fast a forehand, should arrive somewhere. If cannot be lack of practice, for he gets plenty of it. Perhaps it is that he does not practice in the correct way. It would be well for Shaves to place himself entirely in the hands of Maskell at Wimbledon, as Maskell is an adept at finding the flaws.

We in England cannot boast the young talent of America or Australia. That gap between the Davis Cup team and the "new best" is pronounced, but not nearly so pronounced, but it is noted, as in America in the days when J. D. Johnston, Williams and Richards were in front, or as in France in the days of the Four Musketeers.

That second string of ours must not be too far behind, because our present Cup side cannot hold on till Doomsday.

Fowler's Lapse

S. Fowler, in the home team's goal, made few mistakes, his greatest fault being his distribution from goal, a phase of his game which suffered a lapse after a particularly brilliant effort last week against the Lincolnshire Regiment.

Wagstaff was seen both at forward and at back, and in both departments displayed no cause for anxiety.

Y's Early Lead

Kerr again shone in the pivotal position and is likely to remain there throughout the season. Fowler and Lange scored for the "Y" in the first half, Butterworth replying for the soldiers when the ball slipped through Fowler's hands.

In the second half G. Fowler scored a brilliant third goal in a scramble, and just before the end he added his third and the "Y's" fourth.

LEE WAI TONG MAKES SUGGESTIONS

"We Go To Learn"

"We do not expect to perform great things in Europe, but we will endeavour to better our play as the result of lessons learned during our tour, and, in such manner, be ready to teach the future generation."

Referring to the two tours which are now taking place, Lee Wai-tong expressed the opinion that, he saw nothing wrong in them.

Very Strong Point

"One of the strongest points I stressed in my letter to the National Federation at Nanking was that, on no account were the Overseas Chinese to be neglected in the search for talent for the World Olympiad. There are many good players in Malaya, Java, and Borneo as there are here, and even if in the opinion of the Federation they are not good enough, they should at least be given a trial.
"I am endeavouring at present to make it possible for an Overseas Chinese eleven to be represented at the China National Games in Shanghai."

Tours Necessary

"There is one outstanding factor in favour of these two present tours, and that is that they may result in the discovery of some hidden talent, and I may add that there is more than a likelihood that they will."

"There is a great bugbear connected with the Berlin Olympiad, and that is LEAVE."

"I know that many firms and the Governments concerned will be most reluctant to give their employees eight months' leave, for that is the amount of time that the tour will probably take."

Urge For Co-operation

"I really don't see how we can possibly send a representative side to Europe, unless we are given whole-hearted co-operation," he concluded.

In answer to a question about the South China tour, Lee said, "Originally we were invited by the Dutch to send two teams, our 'A' and 'B', but as our Canton players and many other first team members were unable to obtain the necessary leave, the whole project was shelved for a time. Eventually we decided to send a combined team, and the result was that the present team took shape. I think that this tour will do a world of good to the South China 'B' players, who are in need of outside methods of play."

AGGRESSOR STATES AND THE LEAGUE

VEXED QUESTION OF SANCTIONS

GENEVA COMMITTEE CANNOT AGREE

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Geneva, To-day. Another one of the League of Nations' various committees has reached the end of its tether, the League Secretariat having just published the report of the committee of jurists appointed by the Committee of Thirteen in order to examine the question of whether any measures to be taken by the League Council under Article XI of the League Covenant against a State guilty of unilateral repudiation of international obligations can be prevented by the negative vote of the guilty State.

The committee of jurists reports that it failed to reach agreement since it proved impossible to reconcile the opposing views of two groups, of which one—the Franco-Russian group—maintained that the vote of the State which had endangered the peace should not be taken into consideration, while the other group insisted that under the explicit provisions of Article V all decisions of the League Council as well as the League Assembly must be taken by a unanimous vote.

MORAL WEIGHT

It was pointed out by this group that any measures advocated by all the members of the League Council, with the exception of the State charged with repudiation of its treaty obligations, would carry sufficient political and moral weight to condemn the guilty State.

One member of the committee suggested that the question be submitted to the International Court at The Hague, but the suggestion found no favour since it was held that the League Assembly alone was competent to give an interpretation of the League Covenant.

In view of the divergencies of opinion the committee refrained from putting the question to the vote.

ECONOMIC MEASURES

In conformity with a resolution passed by the Committee of Thirteen a sub-committee of economic experts met on Monday in order to examine the question of whether any concrete economic and financial measures could be taken against a country to induce it to modify its course of action. Since the committee of jurists failed, however, to provide a legal basis for such measures, the economic sub-committee could not possibly arrive at any positive conclusions. —Trans-Ocean Service.

GERMAN EX-SERVICE MEN IN PARIS

Impressive Ceremony At Arc de Triomphe

LARGE CROWD'S SILENT EMOTION

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Paris, To-day. An impressive scene took place on Tuesday afternoon at the tomb of the Unknown Warrior, when the delegation of German war veterans which is conducting negotiations here with the international ex-service men's organization, the Federation Internationale des Anciens Combattants, visited the Arc de Triomphe, under which the grave of the Unknown Warrior is situated, and deposited a huge wreath with a ribbon bearing the inscription: "To the Unknown French Warrior, from German fighters at the front."

It was a solemn moment when the leader of the German delegation placed the wreath on the tomb, while the banners of the French, Italian, British, American and Portuguese organizations, whose delegates had accompanied their German comrades, were lowered over the eternal flame burning above the grave.

The German veterans stood at attention for some moments with their hands raised in the German salute, while numerous members of the German colony and a large crowd of onlookers witnessed the scene with a silent emotion. —Trans-Ocean Service.

For a whole day back in 1916, Charles Evans Hughes and most of the persons in the United States thought he had been elected President. He had resigned as associate justice of the Supreme Court to be the Republican nominee, and if his managers had not affronted Hiram Johnson, Hughes would have been elected. Another Californian, Hoover, made amends by putting him back in the Supreme Court five years ago as Chief Justice. He is 73, and has been married for 47 years. Mrs. Hughes is above. Three of their children are alive.

GERMAN WAR DEAD

Memorial Erected In Palestine

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES

Jerusalem, To-day.

The memory of more than 400 German officers and soldiers of the Palestine front who lost their lives on the field of honour, among them about 200 at a place north of Jericho, was appropriately honoured by a series of ceremonies instigated by the National Union for the Care of War Graves, just concluded.

The climax to the event was the investing of a German memorial for the fallen in the world war erected in Nazareth, where the operations lasted a whole year. The 400 names were engraved on a roll of honour.

Among those who took part in the memorial services were the leader of the National Union of German War Graves, delegates of the National Socialist Party, former Steel Helmets, Hitler Youth, the German Red Cross, and the German military attaché at Rome, and also several higher German officers from the former Asia Corps, the Evangelical Prebendary of Jerusalem and representatives of the Roman Catholic Church, the Burgomasters of seven German colonies, and many hundreds of German colonists from all parts of Palestine.

A telegram was despatched to Reichsführer Hitler reporting the conclusion of the memorial services, and an answer conveying his thanks was received by return. —Trans-Ocean Service.

"Grains: Buying continues to be negligible, but we still think that purchases are to be recommended on moderate declines. Total sales—Wheat: 48,889,000 bushels. Corn 13,021,000 bushels.

"Cotton: Private estimates showing only a slight increase in acreage and indicating a crop of about 10,500,000 bales are attracting some speculative buying. Contracts are still rather scarce. Weather conditions are favourable throughout the Belt.

"Rubber: We continue to favour an accumulation of holdings on any minor declines, as the fundamental situation continues to improve. Total sales: 64 lots."

The following telegram was received last night:

"Private estimates of the various crops are not considering the damage of the past week. The weather forecast is still unsettled and we would buy wheat and corn, avoiding bulges."

NATIONAL PLANS FOR DEFENCE

Committee would require immense experience to make up for his own lack of technical knowledge, the position should be held for longer than the life of a Government.

Minister's Responsibility

These and similar arguments are advanced by those who hold the view that the appointment should be held by an outsider or a Civil Servant of outstanding merit, experience and drive.

On the other hand, it is urged with great force that the views of the Committee should be put before the Cabinet by a Cabinet Minister, who alone could see to it that its advice was not neglected, and that the post should, therefore, fall to the Lord President of the Council, acting as deputy for the Prime Minister.

An additional reason for the chairman being a Minister is that it is highly desirable that the money voted for defence should be treated as a block grant and allocated between the Services according to the defence needs of the nation and the policy of the Government.

Some will argue that this suggestion would be unwelcome, because no sum can be named until the Services have each made out their claims. In my view the solution would seem to be to take as a basis the total sum allocated to the three departments in the previous year, and to divide this total between them on the advice of the Committee of Chiefs of Staff, sitting together with the three Defence Ministers.

It is evident that if this procedure were adopted the Chairman would have to be a Minister, since it would be he who would have to carry on negotiations on behalf of the Committee with the Chancellor and report to the Cabinet.

Advantage Of Pooling Funds

The Treasury would certainly expect a reduction in the total vote if such a reduction was compatible with national security. If, on the contrary, increases in one or more of the Services were deemed necessary, the Committee would have to justify the increase, viewing the defence problem as a whole.

This pooling of funds would have the advantage of diminishing claims based largely on prestige or tradition. It would put the whole of our defence system on a rational basis.

Scientific Marvels Of The Reign

What is the most wonderful technical achievement of the last 25 years? Sir Frank Smith, putting the question to himself at the Jubilee luncheon of the Society of Engineers, answered it by selecting the thermionic valve, which enabled millions of listeners the world over to hear the broadcast speeches of the King. Others would, no doubt, make another choice, according to their bent of mind. Sir Frank Smith did not profess to cover the whole field. He had nothing to say of aerodynamics, which have realised dreams that men have cherished almost since the beginning of recorded time, and only incidentally did he speak of the photographic miracles that have given the world both the cinema and the illustrated newspaper. They may have been ruled out of discussion since their history during the King's reign is rather that of remarkable development than of new discovery. The thermionic valve was known before 1910, but there was no broadcasting station in which it could be used. Where there was not a single listener 25 years ago they are now counted by the tens of millions.

That broadcasting and other wonders made possible by the thermionic valve have added enormously to the amenities of life everybody will concede. Whether its permanent value to mankind is as great as that of other achievements is the point on which issue will be joined. The discovery of methods of extracting nitrogen from the air in quantity has removed any fear of famine consequent upon the exhaustion of other fertilisers. The work of the chemist in this field has added value to the medical achievements which have increased the average expectation of life by six and a half years. Without the prospect of greater food supplies this addition to population would have been a calamity rather than a source of satisfaction.

It may well be that in estimating the greatest contribution made to human advance as distinct from technical achievement, the chemist will be given precedence over the electrician. Yet the claim of the latter is not exhausted by his harnessing of the electron. The efficiency of electric lighting has been multiplied many times over, transport has been revolutionised, and power for industrial plant has been made available for towns and villages at long distances from its source.

Sir Frank Smith does not forget the engineer, with his wonders in construction, or the metallurgist who has given us steels that will machine glass and provide dies so hard that wire and steel tubing can be drawn from them endlessly. To-day a motor-car can be built by eight persons in a week, whereas 14 years ago 55 persons would have been employed in making a car less strong and less efficient. Among the various claimants to have placed mankind most heavily in their debt the expert must be left to decide. Every branch of science owes something to the others, and the value of the contribution of each can be assessed by no one scale of measurement. In sum the achievement of a quarter of a century has been so great and so rapid that men have not yet accommodated themselves to the new conditions. Half the problems in economics that are troubling the nations are a direct result of the pace at which the scientists have thrust their inventions on the world. An outstanding need is a new statesmanship that can utilise all invention and discovery. The problem that the scientist has set, and has not solved, is the fitting of his marvels into what the world had come to regard as its ordered scheme of life.

CADDIE'S GRIM ORDEAL

Swept Down Nullah

A narrow escape from death was witnessed yesterday afternoon when a 17-year-old caddie, Yung Fu, was swept down the nullah from Kennedy Road into the harbour.

The man was rescued near the Royal Naval Dockyard, and when admitted to the Government Civil Hospital was suffering from slight abrasions, which are not considered to be of a serious nature.

SANITARY BOARD MEETING

The fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board was held yesterday afternoon with Mr. W. J. Carrie, President of the Board, in the chair. Others present were Dr. G. W. Pope (Medical Officer of Health), Messrs. M. K. Lo, Wong Kwong-tin, L. C. F. Bellamy, Dr. E. A. de Castro, Dr. Li Shu-fan, Mr. C. J. Roe (Secretary), and Mr. Lau Ping-tung (Assistant Secretary).

There will be a dinner dance this evening at the Repulse Bay Hotel. The last bus leaves Repulse Bay at 11 p.m.

Here There and Everywhere

ALAS FOR FAME!

Fifty-seven letters, written by the greatest of all gourmets, Brillat-Savarin, between 1795 and 1818 failed to bring more than $28 at a recent London auction. Some of these were written in English, and the quaint letter dated from Hartford, in America, reveals the man.

The farmer told us about some broods of wild-turkey cocks. We sailed immediately, I fired, and plump went it down beautiful, fat, heavy, and well-looking. I suppose they being properly stuffed with onions, garlic, mushrooms, and anchovies it will prove a ven capital morsel (after dinner), and so it was and so it was indeed.

Brillat-Savarin did not much like the United States of the early 19th century. He admitted, however, that America had made one brilliant contribution to polite living—the turkey.

THRICE WELCOME

Of the 35-minute speech made recently by the Pope to 3,000 British pilgrims, only three words were in English. They were the first three: "Welcome! Welcome! Welcome!"

The rest of the speech was made in Italian. This is the Pope's normal practice on these occasions. A translation is then made by one of his English-speaking chaplains—usually Father O'Connor.

Although the Pope reads and writes English with ease, he finds it very difficult to speak. He speaks fluent French, however, and as becomes a North Italian and a mountaineer, perfect German.

It was in the latter language that the conversation was carried on when the King and Queen paid the visit to the Vatican in 1923 to which he referred in his speech.

Your Daily Smile!

The examiners were checking up the students' papers.
"Can't let this youth pass," said one, handing his colleague a paper. "He can't spell properly."
"What's he done wrong?" asked the other.
"He spells 'proceed' with only one 'e'," said the first.
"Where's he come from?" his colleague asked.
"Ceylon," came the reply.
"Eh?" smiled the second. "That accounts for the spelling. He comes from the land of the 'Gingalese'."

Humour in the Ads
The unmentionable humour of some advertisements is indicated in the following selections:
Lost: A pound note by a working girl tied in a knot.
Wanted: A capable housekeeper able to milk cows, to keep house for one.
Lost: A fountain pen by a man half full of ink.
For sale: Buildings, will eat anything very fond of children.
Lost: A watch by a man with a cracked face.

New Man on the Farm
A farmer sent his green, newly hired man out to plough a large field. Two hours later the farmer had returned to the house completely exhausted.
"How do you expect me to hold that plough," he yelled, "with two big horses trying to pull it away from me all the time?"

MAN OVERBOARD!

Body Of Chinese Not Found

An unknown Chinese male accidentally fell overboard from the Hong Kong-Yammat Ferry launch, Man Lok, shortly after 10 p.m. yesterday, and his body has not yet been recovered.

In his report to the police, in Ping, the coxswain, stated that he was making a return trip to Kowloon City. When about 100 yards from the wharf, he heard some of the third-class passengers shout out that a man had fallen overboard. He stopped the launch and searched the vicinity, but could not locate the person.

NATIONAL PLANS FOR DEFENCE CO-ORDINATION OF THREE SERVICES

VITAL NEED FOR SAFETY IN TIME OF WAR

(By Major-General E. L. Spears)

THE last debate on armaments in the House of Commons had been primarily intended to give the House an opportunity of discussing the co-ordination of the Defence Services.

Owing to Herr Hitler's speech of the day before, and the important statement made by the Government on the expansion of the Air Force, that subject received scant attention.

This is a matter which has long pre-occupied Service members of Parliament, and which many of us feel demands urgent consideration. It includes the allied question of the relationship of the Services to the Government.

Soldiers And Politicians

It is notorious that one of our great weaknesses during the war, one from which the French suffered as much as we did, was the system—or rather lack of one—governing the relations of soldiers and politicians at that time.

The Government was and must remain the supreme authority, but it is of necessity composed of amateurs in the great technical problems of military science. During the war an almost incessant struggle took place between soldiers and politicians. No one will ever know how much this lack of harmony, due to a faulty system, cost us in blood and treasure.

The problem to-day is more complicated than it was during the war, owing to the appearance of the air arm. We must avoid at all costs, should we again have to face the calamity of war, placing upon the Government the task of choosing between conflicting plans and suggestions put forward by the three Services.

Ministers are not and cannot ever be in a position to take decisions upon such matters.

Some people have thought that the solution might be found in the appointment of a Minister of Defence, who would control all three Services, with an Under-Secretary in charge of each department. For some time I was in favour of this idea, but gave it up some years ago, even before the French had tried out the plan and abandoned it as unwelcome.

Superman At Work

It cannot work for the following over-riding reasons, to which others could be added if space allowed:

1.—If one man could be found capable of discharging efficiently the superhuman task of directing the destinies of all three Services, he would, in case of war, completely overshadow the Prime Minister, who would lose his essential authority.

2.—If the Prime Minister himself took over the post he would have no time for his other vitally important duties.

3.—The idea at the back of a Ministry of Defence is that everything appertaining to defence should be under one control. But this solution would not insure that end, for such matters as munitions, food supplies, shipping, etc., would still be outside its scope, so that all that would have been achieved by the creation of a Ministry of Defence would be an ill-balanced, unmanageable, top-heavy concern, in which all the faults of our present system would be magnified.

A Ministry of Defence has few advocates amongst those who have studied the subject at all closely. There are, however, many—and I am one of them—who are not at all satisfied with the position as it is to-day.

It should be said at once that our organisation has vastly improved since the war. This is mainly due to the perfecting of the machinery of the Committee of Imperial Defence. The most important innovation has been the creation of the "Sub-Committee of Chiefs of Staff," on which the three technical heads of the Services meet and in collaboration decide upon what advice they should tender to the Government.

The plan works admirably in peace time. In unhurried consultation, undisturbed by any enemy and with nothing to disprove the wisdom of the views put forward, the Chiefs of Staff agree upon compromise solutions. I fear, however, that the system would break down in war.

Chiefs In Conclave

The Salisbury Committee, upon whose recommendations the sub-Committee was created, stated that it would act "as it were, as the Chief of a War Staff in commission," a mystic and obscure phrase that tempts the ordinary man to think there was some lack of clarity in the minds of its authors. How can three men, each with his own responsibilities, act as one man?

War, and of this I have unfortunately had experience, throws such terrible responsibilities on the man at the head of affairs that it acts as a dissolvent. In war the enemy will do the unexpected; situations of great danger arise, and it would not be possible then for the three Chiefs of Staff to sink their identities. They would each think of the Service they were primarily responsible for, and find themselves unable to assume the crushing weight of setting aside that responsibility in favour of a compromise.

Personally, I am certain that very soon they would each put forward separate plans for the better conduct of the war, and that once more the civilian Cabinet, as ill-equipped as ever to do so, would have to choose between conflicting technical opinions.

There is only one way to solve the difficulty. A chairman should be appointed to the Committee of Chiefs of Staff, and it should be he who, in the name of the Committee, tenders advice to the Cabinet on defence matters.

Civilian At The Head

In war the Government would then have one source of technical advice on Service matters, and one only, the chairman of the committee.

It is also very desirable that the committee should be assisted by a staff drawn from all three Services, and trained to consider defence problems as a whole. The nucleus of such a staff already exists in the officers who pass through the Imperial Defence College.

As we have at present no soldier, sailor or airman capable of formulating the joint advice of all three Services, the Chairman of the Committee must be a civilian.

How should he be chosen? Should he be a Minister, an outside appointment, or a Civil Servant? There is something to be said for any one of these solutions.

It can be argued that the post is too important to be dependent upon the vagaries of our political party system. The danger of the sheltered obscurity of the appointment becoming a refuge for unsuccessful politicians should also be guarded against. It is not a post requiring Parliamentary skill, and, as the civilian head of the

DOROTHY ROUND ELIMINATED AUSTRALIAN GIRL BEATS CHAMPION HELEN JACOBS TRIFLE LUCKY

London, To-day.

Yesterday's play in the All-England Lawn Tennis Championships at Wimbledon provided a day of major sensations, the most startling of which was the elimination of Miss Dorothy Round, the holder of the Ladies' Singles title, by Miss Joan Hartigan, the Australian champion, while the defeat of R. Menzel and L. Hecht, the brilliant Czechoslovakian Davis Cup pair, in the Men's Doubles by K. C. Gandar-Dower and I. H. Wheatcroft, of Great Britain, was another surprise. The British pair's win was described as one of the best performances of the championships.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody is staging a remarkable comeback. Yesterday she entered the semi-final round of the Ladies' Singles by defeating Mme. Mathieu, the French champion, for the loss of three games!

One of the most evenly contested games yesterday was that between Miss Helen Jacobs, last year's runner-up, and the Polish champion, Miss Jedzewska, which the American contender won in straight sets, after 23 games.

MISCONCEPTION ON INDIA BILL

"Communal Award" Clauses

INDIAN GOVERNMENT ISSUES CLARIFYING STATEMENT

London, To-day.

The Indian Government has issued, on the authority of His Majesty's Government, a statement to correct the impression in some quarters that the Government of India Bill has been amended so as to give His Majesty's Government unfettered power to alter, at any time they may think fit, the constitutional provisions based on what is commonly known as the Government's communal award.

In view of the prevalent misunderstanding the statement explains what His Majesty's Government consider the practical effect of clause 304 of the bill, in relation to any change in the communal award, and their own policy in relation to any such change, and emphasises that none of the powers of amendment in the clause can be exercised unless both Houses of Parliament have agreed by resolution, and that within range of the communal award.

The Government would not propose, in exercise of such powers, to recommend to Parliament any changes unless such changes had been agreed between the communities concerned—British Wireless Service.

NEW AMBASSADOR TO GERMANY

Dr. Cheng Winding Up His Affairs

Nanking.

According to a spokesman of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Dr. Cheng Tien-fang, the newly appointed Chinese Ambassador to Germany, will leave for his post in the latter part of July or early in August.

Following the announcement of his appointment, Dr. Cheng has started to make preparations and at the same time is winding up the affairs in his charge at the Central Political Institute, of which he is now Dean. It is understood that Dr. Cheng is seeking an interview with Mr. Wang Ching-wei, President of the Executive Yuan, and concurrently Minister of Foreign Affairs, and will ask for instructions in connection with his new post.

The same spokesman of the War Office announces that General Chiang Tso-ping, Chinese Ambassador to Japan, is returning to China early in July to report to the Government on the latest developments in the Sino-Japanese situation, and to receive fresh instructions from the Chinese Government.

DERBYSHIRE RETAIN THEIR LEADERSHIP

PAINE AGAIN DOES WELL

GOVER SHINES WITH BALL AGAINST OXFORD

London, To-day.

Derbyshire, though without Mitchell, retained their lead in the race for County Cricket Championship honours yesterday when they defeated Nottinghamshire by 7 wickets at Ilkeston, despite good bowling by Voce.

Warwickshire took first innings points off Leicestershire at Edgbaston, Paine, one of the best bowlers in England, taking 5 for 69.

Paine's best feats this season have been:

5 for 34 v. Middlesex
5 for 85 v. Sussex
5 for 20 v. M.C.C.

Though Sinfield scored his second century of the season—his first was 141 against Warwickshire—Gloucestershire lost by one wicket to Somerset.

In spite of an undefeated century by N. S. Mitchell-Innes, the Test cricketer, and a second innings century by Seamer, Oxford lost to Surrey at the Oval by 8 wickets, Gover following up his performance of 12 for 92 against Worcester by taking 6 for 95 in the County's first innings.

H. M. Garland-Wells, the slow bowler who plays all too seldom for Surrey, reached three figures for the first time this season, contributing 103 to the county's total of 455.

Results, as cable by Reuter, were:

Surrey beat Oxford University by 8 wickets at the Oval.

Oxford: 324 (N. S. Mitchell-Innes 122 not out, Gover 6 for 95).

HUGE OPIUM HAUL

Maximum Fine Imposed On Junk Men

1,320 TALS HIDDEN IN BUNDLES OF WOOD

The maximum fine of $5,000, in default 12 months' hard labour, was imposed on two junk men, Chan Leun, aged 36, and Loo Po, aged 50, who appeared before Mr. E. I. Wynne Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on a charge of having 1,320 tals of raw opium, valued at $2,640, on board their fishing junk, No. 4532, alongside the Sham Shui Po Ferry wharf.

Revenue Officer Brown stated that the opium was very cleverly concealed in 26 bundles of the wood—in the centre of each bundle two parcels of opium wrapped in oil-skin were placed, and small pieces of wood were put in to fill up the space at each end. First defendant pleaded that he did not know that there was opium in the bundles; as the second defendant, Mr. Loo, had received the order and taken the wood aboard. Mr. Wynne Jones pointed out that the bundles would have had to be handled with care or else they would have broken up, and therefore the defendants must have had some knowledge of the presence of the opium.

R.O. Brown also stated that defendant has had the junk for only 10 days and that his license only allowed him to carry fish and not any other cargo.

LIGA PORTUGUESA ANNIVERSARY

Over 50 Members At Annual Dinner

AID TO EDUCATION

Yesterday the Liga Portuguesa de Hong Kong celebrated its sixth anniversary in Hong Kong with a social evening at which a Manila Tournament was played between members of the Liga and the residents of Ho Mun Tin. After the game, dinner, at which some 50 members and their lady friends were present, was presided over by Mr. J. A. Almeida, president of the Liga. Among those present were Rev. Father Rossi, Mr. F. Remedios, the president of the Society of Sacros Santos, and Mrs. Remedios. Mr. A. Almeida, president of the St. Joseph's Football Club, Captain Teixeira, Mr. E. Pintos, Messrs. R. Cunha, Jose Grace, M. Figueiredo, F. M. Xavier, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Correa, Mr. and Mrs. E. d'Equino, Messrs. R. Gutierrez, S. Pimenta, A. Botelho, P. Xavier, and A. Remedios.

After dinner Mr. Almeida, during a short speech, said that he had seen the Liga start and carry on its ideals and he appealed to the members of the Portuguese community to support the Liga in a more practical way.

Aid to Education

Though not generally known, the Liga Portuguesa pays for the schooling and books of many children from the voluntary contributions of its members. While much more could be done, its means are somewhat limited, and Mr. P. Xavier, who is in charge of this section, hopes that more assistance will be forthcoming.

The Liga also maintains classes for the teaching of the Portuguese language. Classes are held regularly and as good a grounding as is possible is given to those desiring a knowledge of their mother tongue.

With a view to raising funds to carry on this good work a concert has been arranged to take place at the Club premises in Peking Road on July 20 at 9 p.m.

Two Portuguese plays written by Mr. J. D'Almeida will be presented and the following have kindly consented to assist: Miss Lucia Jorge, Mr. Conrado Jamilho, Jose Hyndman Almeida, Lobato Faria, J. Pereira and Gus d'Aquino, the local radio stars. There will be no charge for admission, but donations towards the school fund will be welcomed.

To-day's Short Story.

BOILED SWEETS

By Marian
Bower

BONDUGH Place (original by written Bon Dieu), which led from the abbey precincts to Chequer-square in a certain old-world East Anglian town, was a row of five little eighteenth century dwellings.

In the end house lived the Misses Sharpe, who never admitted that they kept a shop. They "conducted a little business" in home-made boiled sweets and such elegances as lady's fingers or squire's plum cake.

Customers had to raise the front door knocker and wait until Mrs. Petch, who obliged at No. 5, showed them into the parlour.

There they were asked to take themselves off their feet (i.e. sit down). Next, either Miss Nicholina or Miss Maria rustled in, for whether the sisters were in their morning aprons or wore their afternoon silks, equally they rustled. Hands were shaken, there was a word about the weather, and in time the customer edged round to her requirements and put down the money, which neither Nicholina nor Maria ever chanced to see.

There came a morning when the parlour blind was not raised, when the knocker on the front door was tied down with black crepe.

Nicholina was dead.

Two days later Bondough Place was treated to a spectacle. A hearse, and a pair of black horses with nodding black plumed headpieces, drew up before No. 5. Two men, with wide bands on their top hats, with staves of office quite five feet long, knocked on the door, and the remains of the elder Miss Sharpe were carried out and driven away to the country church where the Sharpes had been buried since one Nicholas was knighted by the first Stuart king. Maria spent the savings of a life-time that Nicholas might go to her grave with the pomp traditional to the Sharpe family, with the result that Bondough Place, led by Mr. Josiah Black, came to the conclusion that the sisters must have been "close" to the point of deceitfulness.

Mr. Black lived in the first house in the Place, and his reputation for piety was such that it seemed to entitle him, not only to keep a sharp eye on his neighbours' failings, but to see that expiation Government asking for equality of treatment to Chinese with other nations in regard to immigration, and the entrance of Chinese women to this country—Reuter.

tioner's in the High-street, and advised her to do the same.

Mrs. Smithers ventured to point out that Maria had never been more than a poor thing, who always followed where Nicholina led, and that the loss of two customers might be awkward for her.

Mr. Black brushed aside such "week-kneed" excuses, and as he had an interest in her house (a mortgage on it), Mrs. Smithers did as she was told.

Six months later a card appeared in the parlour window of No. 5. On it was written in Maria Sharpe's pointed Italian hand, "Home-made Bread for Sale."

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be "How Not To Judge Radio," by Colie Knox.

Thereupon Bondough Place held an indignation meeting. Mr. Black pointed out that Maria Sharpe's avarice was lowering the whole tone of the property—as well as its letting value—and hoped that those who agreed with him would make their indignation felt.

They did. And not many weeks later Maria Sharpe actually made it known that henceforth, instead of giving away her "left overs," she would sell "sell, if you please"—stale buns and penny packets of sweets every Saturday morning.

But in spite of what Mr. Black described as a "weekly invasion of women with string bags and dirty children clinging to their skirts," there came a Saturday when Miss Maria found that the week's takings did not equal the week's expenditure. Already she had reduced Mrs. Petch's attendance from a daily engagement to the washing day and the baking day; now she dispensed altogether with the good woman.

Next Maria found that there was no need for a woman of her age to eat red meat, and gave up church-going on collection Sundays.

"First she robs her neighbours, then she robs the poor; now she robs the Lord," Mr. Black gave out, and all the gentle dwellers in the parish left Maria Sharpe severely alone.

There came a Sunday when Maria forgot to keep the parlour blind down.

A rap sounded on the front door. She answered.

"Two little boys stood on the step."

"A pennyworth of bulls-eyes and a pennyworth of hoffee," said the bigger one.

"But this is Sunday—" Maria began.

"The blind isn't down," objected the boy.

It was because she had neglected to lower the blind that these two children were here, but if she refused to serve them, the disappointment would be theirs. Was it just to make these

OSAKA SHOSHEN KAISHA,
Telephone 28061EPSTEIN STATUES REMOVED*Controversy With Rhodesia*"PHILISTINES FROM EMPIRE OUTPOSTS"

According to Mr. Jacob Epstein the Rhodesians—the Southern Rhodesians—at all events—are Philistines.

The Government of Southern Rhodesia which has purchased as its new London headquarters, Agar House, in the Strand, the former home of the British Medical Association, does not propose to retain the 18 Epstein statues around the top of the building.

The statues, which include "Maternity," "Primal Energy," and "Form Emerging from Chaos," aroused a storm of controversy when first set up in 1908.

Mr. Epstein said to a press representative recently:

"This is the latest attempt to dictate London taste in sculpture—this time from Rhodesia."

They propose the removal of the B.M.A. sculptures, which 25 years ago won against the Philistines. To-day we have a victory of the Philistines from the outposts of Empire!"

Other Side Of The Case

The other side of the case was put by Mr. A. T. Scott, of the firm of Sir Herbert Baker, R.A., and A. T. Scott architects to the Southern Rhodesian Government, who said:

"The position has been misunderstood. What we feel is that the figures, which were all very well, and indeed very appropriate round the B.M.A. building, are quite out of place as decoration to a Government office."

"Anatomy for the B.M.A.—yes. But do these figures indicate the produce of Southern Rhodesia? No. It is a question of what is appropriate."

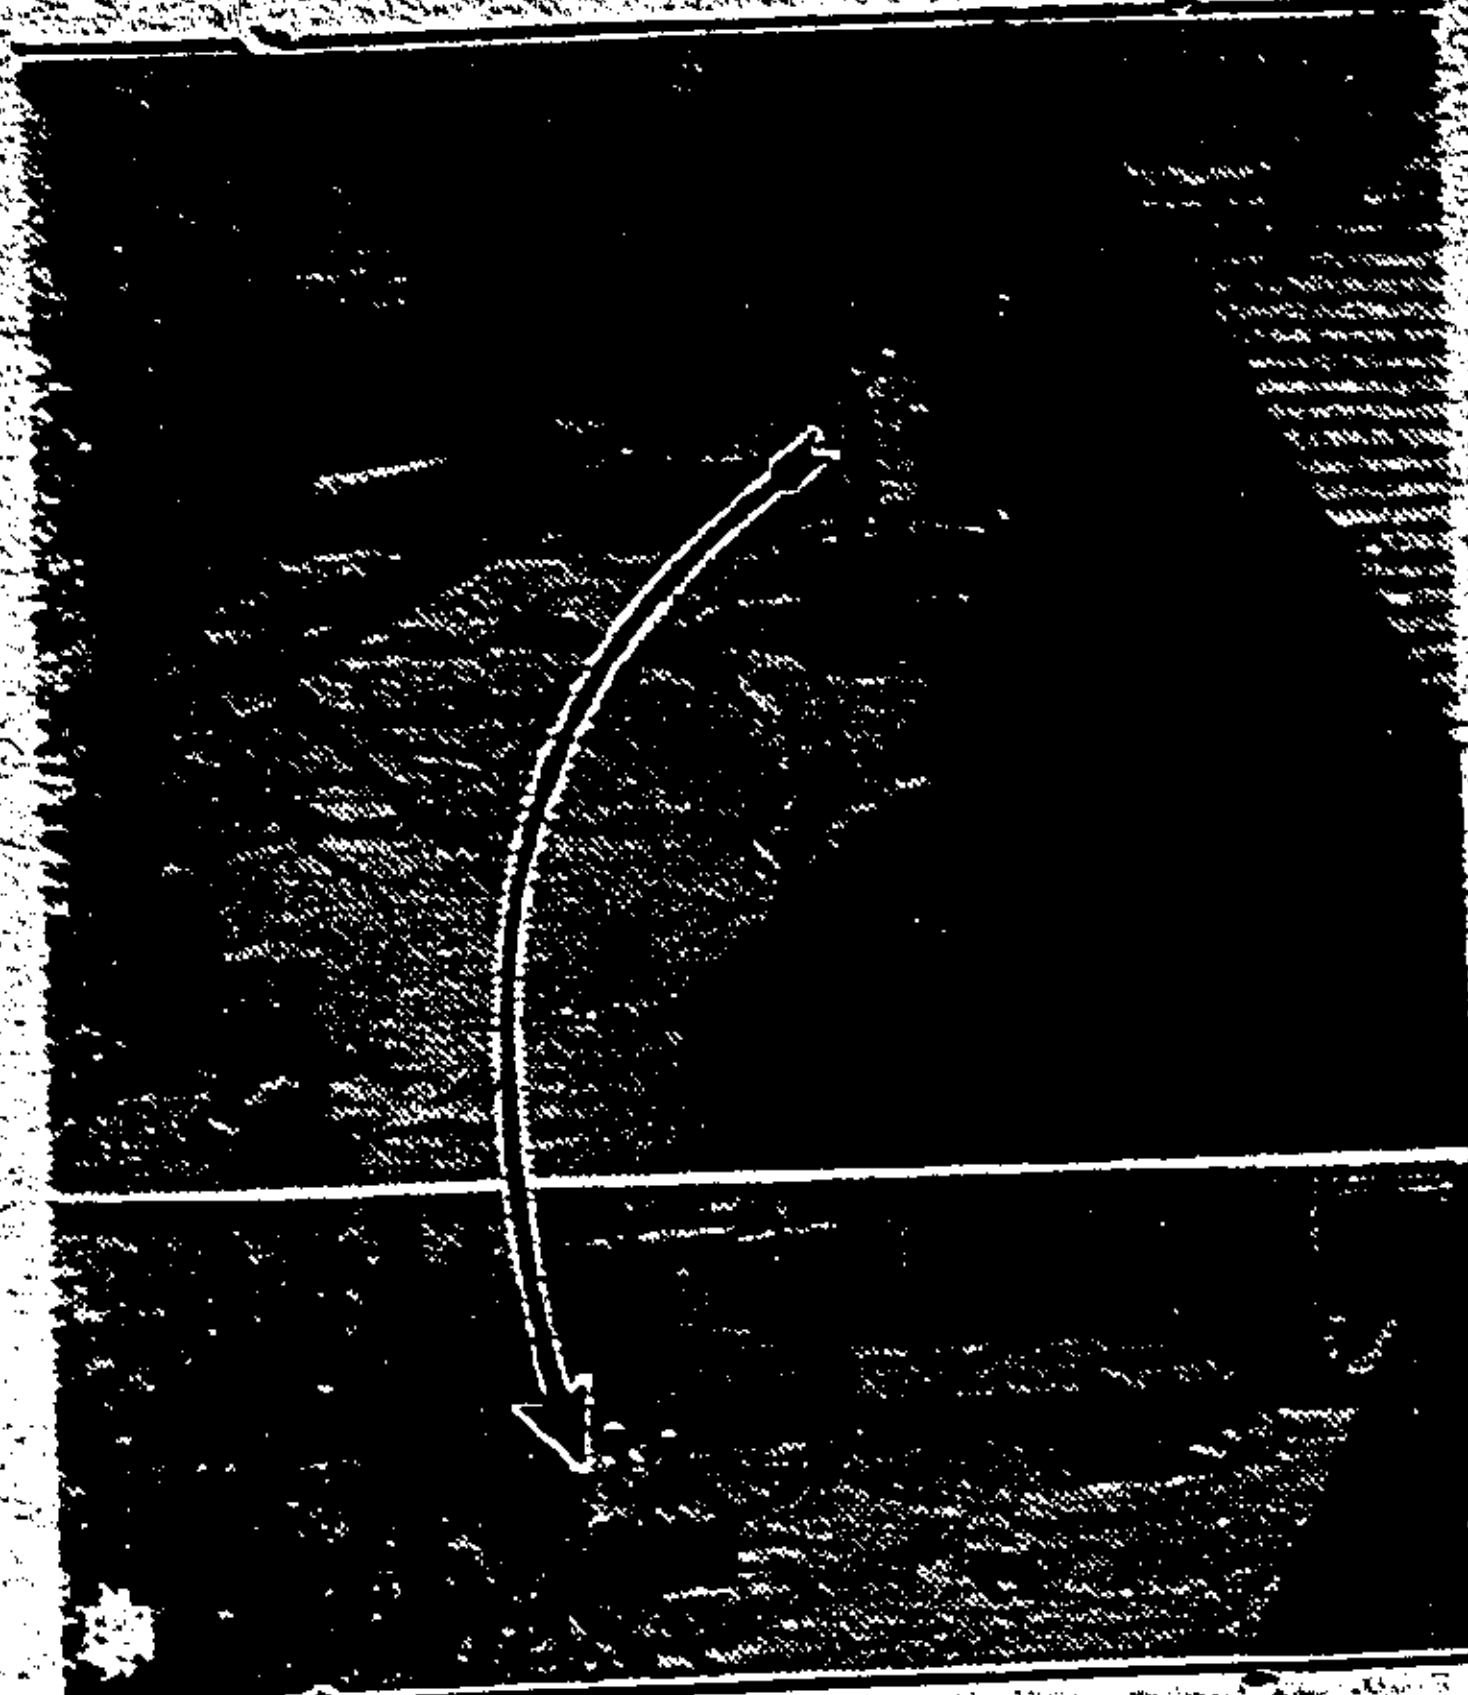

"We wish to find a suitable home for these 18 statues, where they will be in artistic harmony with their surroundings and properly appreciated. Perhaps a connoisseur will buy them. Perhaps a museum will acquire them. Possibly they might be bought and presented to the nation."

"But the point is that it is not dislike of them in themselves that actuates the Southern Rhodesian Government in wanting them removed."

Former Controversy
Mr. Scott added that if suitable arrangements for the future of the statues could not be made they might after all stay where they were.

The appearance of the statues in 1908 first brought Mr. Epstein into prominence. As soon as the works were revealed to the public gaze (although field glasses were necessary to view them properly) a storm of controversy arose.

Many well-known figures in the world of art, including Sir Charles Holmes, the ex-keeper of the National Gallery, and Mr. Laurence Binyon, came to Mr. Epstein's defence.

Two panels from the remarkable motion picture of Helen Carter and her fiancé, Orville Neil of Pueblo, Colo., being swept to their deaths by floods at Colorado Springs. The couple climbed to the top of their stalled car but the angry waters swirled higher about them, and, despite the efforts of hundreds, they were finally washed into the torrent and drowned.

"Well, just this once," Maria said.

A third boy hurried up. He had sixpence to spend. Maria looked hungrily at the silver coin.

The next Sunday not three children but five appeared.

Then a girl came and said her mother had run out of bread; could Miss Sharpe let her have a loaf?

The Sunday takings increased. Maria began to hope they might keep the wolf from her door.

But one Monday morning an imperative rap sounded on the door of No. 5. Maria hastened to open it. Mr. Black pushed past her, and, unbidden, entered the parlour.

He opened a parcel. Showed four slices of plum cake.

"Yesterday," began Mr. Black, "these four slices of plum cake were sold by you. Yesterday was the Lord's Day. The by-laws of this town say that it is illegal to keep a shop open on a Sunday."

"I will let you off with a warning this time," Mr. Black went on, as if he were a whole bench of magistrates. "But if you offend again I shall see that the police do their duty."

Maria wanted to say that only her Sunday takings kept her out of the workhouse, but what would Josiah Black care if the last of the Sharpes did end her days in that dismal institution?

Mr. Black bounced himself out as rudely as he bounced in.

Maria went back to the kitchen. If her body shivered, her eyes burned. Josiah Black had taken from her her last chance of supporting herself.

There was the Sharpe teapot, it had been her father's, and his father's before him. It might make enough to pay the rent for a whole year.

But she must eat. She must have coals. She must have flour and sugar and currants.

Would it be better to draw down the blinds and just—

Just what? Starve?

It hurt to go hungry. There was Papa's watch, which Nicholas always wore. There were Nicholas's own clothes.

Maria's mind darted back to a pair of slippers. Soft, warm slippers, called by a silly name. They were edged with fur. How warm was fur! She had given them to Nicholas herself. They cost ten shillings.

To sell Nicholas's clothes would be to desecrate the dead. But to borrow the slippers—just for this once!

She returned to the kitchen, lit the little paraffin stove, put the kettle on to boil.

She opened the door of the dresser, saw the flour. She ought to have kneaded the dough and put it to rise before now. The currants were here, too, not as much as washed, and if a customer came, there would be no plum cake ready.

The kettle began to sing. Maria longed for a cup of tea. It was weeks since she had drunk anything but warm water, and she shivered with cold. At least, if she had a lump of sugar, the water would taste sweet.

Behind the sugar basin was a flick-shaped, stoppered bottle. Maria knew there was brandy in that bottle. She had bought it herself when the doctor ordered Nicholas a little stimulant.

Maria Sharpe took the bottle off the shelf. It was nearly full. She took out the stopper. The smell of the liquor seemed smooth to her nostrils, but it increased the discomfort of her empty stomach.

Bridge Notes

With this hand the opening bidder would bid two spades over two diamonds and then, if you raised to three spades, would be justified in gambling on four. A contract of four spades on this hand would be hopeless even with the best possible division of cards and, if the cards were divided badly, might do down as much as three or four tricks. But if, with the same original holding, you simply bid two spades over one spade, the opening bidder, of course, would now pass and you would be at a safe contract.

Again, suppose that the opening spade bidder responds to your takeout of two diamonds, not with two spades but with two notrump. Naturally, with your 5-4-3-1 distribution you cannot stand a notrump contract and, looking for a safe out, you now bid three spades. However, your partner cannot possibly read your three-spade bid as a rescue. He reads it as a strength-showing bid and as an infernal force.

His holding may be something like and he may be very glad to go on to game.

But whether he chooses to bid three notrump or four spades, you find yourself at a hopeless game contract. Had you responded with two spades, your partner would have made one rebid of two notrump. Over two notrump you could have bid three diamonds, and your partner would have known you had a weak hand, as otherwise you would have shown your diamond suit in the first place.

Over three diamonds the opening bidder will either pass or bid three spades to give you one more chance. You will pass and you will at least have stopped under games, and in addition the opponents almost certainly will not double.

A survey of American kidnapping cases indicates that in seeking to extort $200,000 from the family of George Weyerhaeuser (top, right), the kidnappers followed a well-established practice in taking a boy rather than a girl. In the other most notable cases, the victims were all boys—(left, top to bottom), Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., Lloyd Keet, Charlie Ross and (right, below), Edward Cadahy, Jr. Keet was murdered as his wealthy Springfield, Mo., father was establishing contact with the kidnappers; Ross was never found; Cadahy luckily was returned and his kidnapper caught.

Then Maria, who had never given way to as much as a glass of sherry wine, poured a few drops of this brandy into hot water and drank it. The aroma seemed to clear her mind. To present the truth to her. What was the good of selling the Sharpe silver teapot, of parting with her father's watch? At the most it was only putting off the day when she would be penniless. And in the meantime she would be hungry when she went to bed, and more hungry still when she rose.

And cold! It was almost worse to be cold than hungry. She made her way into the parlour. There was a single slice of cake left on the plate. She clutched it, ate it as she stood there. She emptied the few boiled sweets, remaining in the glass jar, into her hand. She filled her mouth with them, crunched them, to the peril of her "set," that she might swallow them the quicker. She pulled down the blind. She would never open the shop again.

From a Cup

Back in the kitchen, she ate every crumb, all the sugar. There was a crust of bread put by from her breakfast; she put it on a plate, took it to the table. She drew up a chair, poured out another cupful of hot water, added more brandy. At least, if she were so wanting in gentility as to crave for spirit, she would drink it out of a cup, not, like a man, out of a glass.

The sisters had always said grace before meals. Maria bent her head. The words... What were the words? She could not remember... Thankful... for what?

She clutched the flask. Poured out quite half of the remaining brandy. She swallowed it—without water this time. Felt its warmth as it ran down her throat, felt it warm her body.

Thankful! Of course! She was thankful not to feel cold.

Her head began to go round, as if it had a top revolving within it. Her sight failed, the room went dark.

Before... before... anything happened. The brandy which remained.

She took both hands to raise the flask to her lips. Drink! She would drink it all. Every drop!

She gulped. She tried to swallow.

"This day our daily bread," she muttered.

The teapot turned out to be Queen Anne; the sweet jar to be early green Bristol glass. They and other things in the house made enough money to pay Miss Maria's debts, and to save the last of the Sharpe's from a pauper's funeral.

The inhabitants of Bondoough Place sent a wreath, and with it went a card inscribed in Miss Black's handwriting.

"To our esteemed friend and neighbour."

First Church Of Christ, Scientist

New Appointments. The election of A. Barry Bacon as the new President of The Mother Church was announced. Mr. Bacon succeeds Dr. John M. Brewer, Associate Professor at the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

New Readers elected to serve in The Mother Church for the next three years are Ralph B. Schofield and Miss Florence Siever Middaugh.

Edward L. Ripley and Ezra W. Palmer, both of Brookline, Mass., were re-elected Treasurer and Clerk of the Church, respectively.

Mr. Schofield, who will conduct church services, was born at Howden, Yorkshire, England. He was educated at Eton College, where he first experienced the healing influence of Christian Science. Entering business in London, he worked with a firm of marine insurance underwriters at Lloyd's. During the World War he served as captain of infantry with a British regiment.

In 1907 he joined First Church of Christ, Scientist, in London and has served that church as First Reader and chairman of its board of directors. Since 1919 he has devoted all his time to the public practice of Christian Science, and in 1930 was elected to The Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

Second Reader

Miss Middaugh, the Second Reader, is a native of Colorado and was educated in the schools of Denver. She has been a student of Christian Science for more than twenty years, and a member of The Mother Church since 1918; she has had membership with branch churches in Denver and in Los Angeles, California, and has served as soloist in Christian Science churches during sixteen years, six of which were with The Mother Church.

New President

Mr. Bacon, the new President, was born in Pontiac, Michigan, but when quite young his parents moved to Washington, D.C., where he spent his boyhood and received his education. Entering the retail business world, he located in Boston, where he has steadily advanced and is now president of one of the oldest specialty department stores in New England.

He became interested in Christian Science shortly after coming to Boston, through the severe illness of a member of his family. In the year 1900 he was made a member of The Mother Church, and has served it actively and faithfully. He is also President and a Director of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Marshfield, Massachusetts.

Mr. Bacon's Address. In his address Mr. Bacon asserted the "modern need" for accepting the Bible axiom, "By their fruits ye shall know them."

"During the past four years of the so-called depression," he said, "when the whole world has struggled under unemployment, lack, want, and woe, Christian Science has come to the rescue of many, and through the application of this Science, they have been healed of erroneous conditions. In the midst of this period the building of our new Publishing House was wisely undertaken. Thereby many people were given employment, much money was put into circulation, and an example of courage and perseverance in right-doing was presented with resulting benefit."

Testimonials Read

The fruitage of Christian Science in healing all manner of disease and disorder, was attested in selected testimonials read by Mrs. Marjorie C. Mulock of Detroit, Michigan. Among some of the healings reported were pernicious anemia, epilepsy, mental instability, rheumatoid arthritis, atrophied limbs, defective eyesight and distressing stoppage of speech.

William W. Davis, Executive Supervisor of Christian Science Charitable and Benevolent Institutions, reported increased guests and associates at both the Pacific Coast and Chestnut Hill Sanatoriums as well as abundant loving support to the Christian Science Pleasant View Home. "After being our guests for short periods, business men and women, church workers and home workers frequently report that they have returned to their work with renewed assurance, hope and courage, qualities that have been reflected, in turn, in improvement in their homes and business surroundings."

Members of the Board of Lectureship carried Christian Science messages to the four corners of the globe. It was disclosed at the meeting they lectured in the British Isles, Continental Europe and "Scandinavia," Australasia, Hawaii and the Orient, Africa, Bermuda and the West Indies, Mexico and the Canal Zone, the United States, Canada and Alaska.

Articles Published. Roland B. Harrison, Manager of The Christian Science Publishing Society, reported a distinct improvement in the quality of articles submitted for publication in the religious periodicals, attributable, he said, to greater spiritual progress in the field.

Commenting on an encouraging higher circulation trend for all periodicals, particular attention was paid to The Christian Science Monitor. "The average daily net paid circulation of the Monitor for the six months ended March 28, 1935, was 128,608, the highest sustained average over any six months period in the history of the paper," he said. "Readers of the Monitor have been able to depend upon the discerning and impartial presentation of vital news in the United States, Europe and The Far East—sincerely faithful and fully in the perspective of its social importance.

An outstanding development in the dissemination of news by this international daily paper is the presentation of The Monitor Views the News, reported on by C. Augustus Norwood, Manager of Committees on Publication. Nearly 200 stations in North America were asserted to be outlets for this service furnished by co-operation of The Monitor, Committees on Publication and radio stations.

Fewer Mis-statements. Originally the main duty of the Committees on Publication, as set forth in the Church Manual, was the correction of impositions on the public in regard to Christian Science.

Mr. Norwood added that "Christian Science is now so well known that published mis-statements calling for corrections are comparatively few." And that "reports of our Lesson-Sermons in the Christian Science Quarterly are each week reaching millions of people through newspapers, including four metropolitan dailies of New York City."

The addition of 73 new branches of The Mother Church, 47 in North America, one in South America, 17 in Europe, two in Africa and four in Australasia, were listed by Miss Rosamond Wright, Manager of the Department of Branches of Practical Honors.

Letters Received. Clerk of the Church, noted in particular numerous letters received from young people showing their comprehension of Christian Science and their ability to demonstrate it. In welcoming these into Church membership he greeted the words of Mrs. Eddy in "Miscellaneous Writings": "Beloved children, the

NEXT IRISH SWEEP

To Be Held On The Cambridgehire

The next Irish Sweepstakes will be on the Cambridgehire. The drawing of the prizes will commence on October 26, and the race will be run on October 30. The closing date for the receipt of subscriptions in Dublin is October 5.

Tickets for the Cambridgehire Draw are now available at ten shillings each, or the equivalent of that amount in any foreign currency.

The world has need of you and more as children than as men and women; it needs your innocence, unselfishness, faithful affection, uncontaminated lives.

An increase of 29.5 per cent. in the sales of Mrs. Eddy's works over the previous year was recorded by William M. Bartlett, Secretary of the Trustees under the Will of Mary Baker Eddy. "The world's need for the healing truths of Christian Science has grown more and more pressing during the two decades just passed," Mr. Bartlett pointed out. "The list of publications which in 1915 consisted of 39 items has expanded to more than 200, while new books and translations authorized and now under way, to be published within the next 12 months, will add 30 new items to the list."

Approximately 6,000 persons representing but a fraction of the total membership of The Mother Church, crowded the great auditorium to the third gallery overlooking into the original

RADICAL SOCIALISTS IN FRANCE

Herriot May Resign
Chairmanship

CABINET COUNCIL MEETING

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Paris, To-day.
The session of the executive committee of the Radical Socialist Party to-day may result in the resignation of M. Herriot from the chairmanship of the party or even a complete rupture of their relations, according to political quarters here.

M. Herriot, the Echo de Paris asserts, has been irritated by the speech hounding the party politically delivered by M. Daladier during the meeting of the "People's Front," which entirely disregarded the fact that the chairman of the party, M. Herriot, had been delegated to the Cabinet in order to guarantee the loyalty of the party.

The affair and its possible consequences will be discussed by a Cabinet Council, according to l'Oeuvre, which predicts that in any event M. Herriot would not again accept candidature for the chairmanship of the party next autumn.—Trans-Ocean Service.

In 44 Hours

ALMOST "FULL" COMPLIMENT
OF PASSENGERS FOR MAIDEN
TRIP WEST

Making the trip from Shanghai to Hong Kong in the record time of 44 hours, the 18,000-ton North German Lloyd liner, Scharnhorst, arrived in the Colony at daylight to-day on her maiden voyage westward, carrying nearly a full complement of passengers, numbering over 200.

Several more passengers will embark in Hong Kong and the vessel will sail at 6 o'clock to-night for Bremen, via Manila, Singapore, Penang, Belawan, Colombo, Suez, Port Said, Naples, Marseilles, Barcelona, Palma de Majorca, Southampton and Rotterdam.

Owing to the engine trouble experienced during the voyage East, it has been thought expedient to give the ship a complete overhaul on her arrival at Bremen, so that she will not sail again for the East as originally arranged but will miss one trip. She will be replaced by the s.s. Trier.

VOLUNTARY CODE FOR BUSINESS

Arranged By President
Roosevelt

Washington, To-day.

President Roosevelt has arranged with a skeletonized National Recovery Administration and the Federal Trade Commission to carry out with industry a voluntary code of agreements supplementing the code structure outlawed by the Supreme Court.

The Trade Commission is authorized to enter into negotiations with industry on fair trade agreements, while the N.R.A. is authorized to assist in voluntary agreements for minimum wages, maximum hours, and the abolition of child labour.

The arrangements are regarded as indicative of the postponement of any administration plan to revive the compulsory code system during the present session of Congress.—Reuter.

arrived on the spot and had taken the flying boat and crew on board.

The prompt rescue of the disabled plane causes the German press to point out that the establishment of "floating" fuel stations in mid-Atlantic, keeping in constant touch with the planes by wireless, practically affords the maximum safety for mail planes obtainable under present circumstances.

NEW AUSTRO-CZECH AGREEMENT

Indignation Expressed
In Germany

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Berlin, To-day.

Great indignation is expressed in the Berlin press at the alleged agreement concluded between the Austrian and Czechoslovakian authorities, whereby Austrians who attempt to cross the Czech frontier to Germany without being in possession of the necessary visas will be detained and extradited. In return for this favour Austria is said to have agreed to hand over to Czechoslovakia any members of the German minorities there who attempt to evade military service in the Czechoslovakian army by escaping to Austria.

This alleged agreement is described as the first tangible result of the recent conversations between the Austrian and Czech Foreign Ministers, Herr E. Bergr-Waldenegg and Dr. Benes, relative to the closer co-operation of the police forces of the respective countries.—Trans-Ocean Service.
